Aldermen OK Ward Remap

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Shrugging off warnings that aldermen may have to carry maps with them for the next 10 years, the City Council approved new ward boundaries Tuesday to give individual citizens more equal representation on the council.

Ald. Alvin Tews (5th), a primary critic of the new ward map because of what he called "one-block jogs" in the boundary lines, announced before the 16-4 vote that he wouldn't press the issue of straight lines despite his misgivings.

Tews had offered a map eliminating 21 of the jogs that were drawn by Planning Director Jack Hetu. The welfare and ordinance committee recommended adoption of the Hetu map, with two changes that had been proposed by Tews and another designed to make it easier for the Outagamie County board to use the same lines in drawing districts for Appleton supervisors on the board.

Strutz also objected that Hetu vote majority was two votes prepared only one map. "That heavier than the two-thirds was it — take it or leave it," needed for passage.

In other business, the council: — Approved on a 17-3 vote Nov. 17 deadline for Finance Director David Champion to submit an expenditure budget for the city for 1972, and received and sent to the finance committee a resolution by Ald. Robert Roemer to pin down city budgeting procedures and deadlines for various steps by ordinance.

— Denied library board requests for payment of a $650 increase in Library Director Gordon Bebeau's salary for this year and for authority to buy voting against the map. The 16- Turn to Page 2, Col. 5

First Candidate Enters Mayor Race

With the spring election more than five months distant, Appleton has its first announced candidate for mayor.

He is James P. Sutherland, 36, former staff assistant to Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis.

Sutherland, a Madison native who has spent most of his life in Appleton, pledged a change in executive leadership that would "respect the taxpayer citizen's viewpoint, his income and his support."

Sutherland said today he was announcing his candidacy early to "assure these citizens that a considered, serious, all-out effort will be made to see that we get that change."

George Buckley, who will complete his sixth year as mayor next April, said today he had not yet decided if he will seek another four-year term. The mayor's salary is $15,000.

James Sutherland

Sutherland criticized what he saw as a lack of taxpayer respect on the part of the present administration and charged the Buckley administration with failing to provide a two-way communication between government and taxpayers.

"Too often in the past," he contended, "the communication has been all one way, with public officials doing all the talking, telling us what kind of government we should have without first finding out what we, who end up paying the bills, think government should and should not do for us."

Plans Visits

Sutherland continued, "It is my intention to utilize the remainder of this year to visit personally, as an announced candidate, with as many of the people of Appleton as I can, to get their thoughts and opinions on local government and the services it provides. I will be listening, not talking."

He said he will "start talking" when he starts campaigning, which will be early next year.

Nomination papers will be available from the city clerk's office in January. The filing of papers by more than two candidates will necessitate a primary election in March.

Sutherland said his attraction to involvement in Appleton government is influenced by two factors.

The first, he explained, is his interest in the delivery end of government and "...my belief that government as a whole is largely a failure if it fails in the delivery of its services to people. Nowhere is this more evident than at the local level of government."

The second factor, Sutherland stated, is his attachment to Appleton and its people.

$249,252 Budget Approved

Library Board Continues Feud With Council

A $249,252 budget, including a raise for the director, was passed unanimously Tuesday by the Appleton Public Library Board.

The vote ended months of discussion on the budget, but probably began another bout with City Hall on the director's salary, which has caused some difficulties in the past few months.

The salary figure on the contract which the board extended to Gordon Bebeau, head librarian, is $15,550, an increase over last year's $14,870.

In reality, Bebeau has been receiving only $14,220 — a fact which has been the cause of the dispute between the City Council and the library board.

Director's Salary

The dispute arises because the library board and the council each feels that it has the right to set the director's salary.

Citing current state statutes, the library board claims final authority.

The statute states that the library board shall have exclusive control of the expenditure of all money collected, donated or appropriated for the library fund.

The board may appoint a librarian and such other assistants and employees as deemed necessary and prescribe their duties and compensation.

The library statutes are currently under revision in the Legislature. Bill 47 already has passed the Senate, and indications are that it will pass in the Assembly. Both of those paragraphs have been retained in the revised laws causing one library board member to say, "they apparently are at odds with City Council prerogatives and should be cleared up."

City Control?

Another dispute might arise because on Monday, City Atty. David Geenen had advised the Council's finance committee that the Council has the final word over the library board in a dispute over library spending.

The finance committee, in turn, advised the Council to overrule the library board's claim of final authority.

Geenen said that "you could properly deny them if that's your desire; you could give in to them too if that's your desire."

He indicated that he also had studied state statutes

The library board's independence only applies to such items as philanthropic grants for library purposes, not funds provided by the tax levy, he said.

Geenen's opinion, reported back to the library board by the Rev. Paul Olm, president, who had attended the finance committee meeting, caused some dissatisfaction.

Legal Opinion

It also resulted in a resolution authorizing board member John Kellogg, a lawyer, "to investigate the proper procedure for obtaining the attorney general's opinion" regarding the matter.

The library budget, before the final decision to raise Bebeau's salary, stood at $247,922. Another figure of $300 was included for an independent auditor, bringing the 1972 budget to $249,252.

The major portion of the $62,754 increase over the 1971 budget goes for equipment, $40,725, which the board feels is necessary for a library serving an area of its size. This includes a bookmobile and books, storage shelving, furniture, a floor scrubber and a photo charger.

Salary Hike

The other major increase, as can be expected, goes for salaries. The figure is $142,537, as compared to $128,267 in 1971. The salaries of staff people (with the exception of the director) constitutes a 6 per cent increase, 4 1/2 per cent cost-of-living hike and 1 1/2 per cent merit hike.

Contrary to the normally smooth library board meetings, Tuesday's session was filled with differences of opinion.

Wussow's Plan

Supv. Charles Wussow, chairman of the Outagamie County Board's special reapportionment committee, said he still plans to submit his own proposal for supervisory district lines in Appleton even though Appleton has adopted a new 20-ward plan.

Wussow had been unhappy with the Appleton ward plan, claiming some ward lines were gerrymandered to throw certain supervisors together in the same ward.

There has been pressure, however, to have ward lines and supervisory district lines the same to simplify voting and also to permit the city to combine the posts of alderman and supervisor, if desired.

Wussow said he has drawn three different ward maps, all of them keeping the wards within 1 per cent population variance, while "sticking more to the traditional ward lines" of the city.

Under his plans, he also would renumber the wards so the city's Calumet County ward would become the 20th Ward instead of the 9th as it is now known. This, he said, would permit the wards and supervisory districts to carry the same numbers.

He said he had shown his maps to several aldermen who "said they liked the idea." He added he did not know why they were not considered by the council.

Wussow said he would submit his maps to the board's reapportionment committee next week. If the county board would adopt one of his maps, Wussow said, it would then be up to the city to decide what to do about dual polling places.

Salary Hike Urged To Allow Mayor's Job More Appeal

In a move described as an effort to make the Appleton mayor's job attractive to a larger number of qualified candidates, Ald. Judith Winzenz (12th) has proposed raising the chief executive's annual salary to $19,500.

In a resolution received by the City Council Tuesday, Mrs. Winzenz describes the present salary of $15,000 as low and points out that it has been unchanged since 1966.

The new rate would take effect the third Tuesday in April next year, the start of a new four-year term for the winner of the mayor's post in the election to be held April 4.

Mayor George Buckley has refused a raise since taking office for his first two-year term in 1966. His second term, the council's finance committee for consideration

Mrs. Winzenz explains in her resolution that the salary change should be made in time for the 1972 budget's adoption and before the next election.

She adds that, "The mayor, as chief administrative officer of the city's approximately $14 million budget, should have many qualifications including managerial skills which also are in demand in industry."

"A higher salary will help attract a larger number of qualified candidates in the 1972 election, giving voters a wider choice," she adds.

Besides raising the present level by $4,500, Mrs. Winzenz proposes providing for annual increases of $1,000 per year for the next four years.

The proposal was referred to the council's finance committee for consideration

F. J. Bloomer Dies Tuesday After Illness

Appleton Resident Was President of Family Corporation

The president of John F. Bloomer Company Inc., Francis J. Bloomer, 1306 S. Outagamie St., Appleton, died Tuesday morning after a short illness.

Bloomer was a native of Appleton.

He became president of the corporation, which specializes in state highway construction projects, in 1956 when the firm was incorporated. It was founded in 1922 as a private company by Bloomer's father, John Bloomer, who died in 1955. The firm is a closed family corporation.

Bloomer also was a partner in the Bloomer-Bilumunsky Co. from 1952 to 1967. The company manufactured and sold asphalt for highway paving.

He was a member of the St. Mary Catholic Church, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Elks Club, Butte des Morts County Club and Wisconsin Road Builders Association.

Survivors are his widow, a son, a sister, a grandson, and a daughter-in-law.

Visitation will be from 7 until 9 p.m. today at the Brett-Schneider-Tietlin Funeral Home and after 8 a.m. until funeral services at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary Catholic Church.

A prayer service will be at 7:30 p.m. and an Elks Club service at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Burial will be in St. Mary Cemetery.

A memorial has been established for the American Cancer Society or Appleton St. Elizabeth Hospital Building fund.

Welfare Mothers Hear Some Answers

Concerned Outagamie Mothers were successful Tuesday night in bringing together five county officials involved in payment and non-payment of child support, but the women may not have liked everything they heard.

Mrs. Janet King, president of the welfare mothers group, said the purpose was to find out what each official's responsibilities are, "instead of them passing the buck" when they're contacted separately.

County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren, divorce court judge and Family Court Commissioner John Ensley told the mothers that they can't perform miracles in producing more money than an ex-husband has, and they warned that if they didn't leave him an adequate amount to live on he would lose his incentive to work.

"I can't stretch the money any further than they did," Van Susteren said, noting many are in debt when they come in for a divorce.

"Lack of Money"

Ensley cited the frequent example of a man who remarries and must support two families. "It's simply a lack of money. If they've got the dough, I can get them."

He and Van Susteren recommended that mothers in these tight money cases should seek welfare help.

Dist. Atty. James Long offered something more appealing to the mothers but he admitted that it was a "theory of Jim Long's."

He proposed determining how much the children need to live on and then determining how much of this the father and the mother each can provide with the rest coming from welfare.

The child is the forgotten one, he said.

Long said that he didn't know how it would be implemented but that it could and must be effected.

Clerk of Courts Gloria Johnson and Sheriff Calvin Spice explained their responsibilities, both being mainly carry ing out specific duties not involving judgments of cases or circumstances.

The mothers asked many questions, including several involving their individual non-support payment problems. They also complained about payment arrearages being wiped out the failure to apprehend some fathers who have left the state and related items.

Computer System?

They asked why a computer system couldn't be set up so that when a support payment failed to come in to Miss Johnson's office it would become apparent immediately. Madison has such a system it.

Lucey Says He Won't Veto Plan for Reapportionment

MADISON — The State Assembly is expected to give final approval today to the Obey-Steiger congressional reapportionment plan and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey says he will not veto the measure, despite protests from 8th and 9th District Democrats.

Lucey told the Post-Crescent Madison Bureau that there is little likelihood that he will reject the measure drafted by Rep. David Obey, D-Wausau, and William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, because it provides equitable districting under the U.S. Supreme Court's one man-one vote rulings.

The Assembly is expected to give final approval to the plan later today and send it to the Senate for ratification of a minor amendment before it is forwarded to Lucey's desk.

Democrats in the 8th and 9th Districts contend the bill is a compromise agreed to by most incumbent congressmen will guarantee Republican control of those districts for the coming decade.

Critics of the plan have proposed that the new 8th District be composed of Fox Valley and Lakeshore counties rather than extending into Northeastern Wisconsin as far as Vilas County.

The Obey-Steiger plan divides traditionally Democratic Manitowish County from the 8th District represented by Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay.

Amendments Fail

Two amendments rejected by the Assembly last week would have put Manitowish and She bogwan counties into the new 8th District and trimmed the Republican northeastern counties from the district.

Lucey said that no matter what changes are made in remapping the 8th District it will remain the most Republican congressional district in the state, despite the arguments of Fox Valley Democratic party leaders.

The governor said he will approve any equitable districting plan which clears the legislature, including the Obey-Steiger plan.

His statement came in response to a petition being circulated by legislative Democrats calling on Lucey to veto the measure and to appoint a federal courts

Bear Creek Girl, 5, Is 15th Traffic Fatality

BEAR CREEK — Lauren Gale Danforth, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Danforth, died Tuesday evening when she was struck by a car near her home.

The girl was playing softball about 5 p.m. with a brother and sister when the ball was thrown across State 76 and she ran after it.

In Kindergarten

She was struck by an auto driven by Robert W. Engle 51, route 1, Cable, Engle told 1970 Of the 1971 deaths, five Outagamie County sheriff's officers, he was traveling south out about 60 miles per hour

The Clintonville rescue squad was called and took the girl to Clintonville Community Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Lauren was the third oldest of six children. She was a kindergarten at Bear Creek Elementary School.

Ryan Funeral Home De Pere is in charge of arrangements.

The death is the 15th traffic fatality in Outagamie County for 1971 compared with 16 in 1970. Of the 1971 deaths, five have been children, including one pedestrian accidents and one child on a tricycle.

opinion. Even the committee reports generated controversy.

One problem arose over the availability of $25,000 in federal funds, which could be available to the library if an acceptable extension program is presented.

A resolution empowering Bebeau to meet with other county librarians to develop a possible model program for the funds at first appeared favorable to the board, but

Innocent Plea Entered in Slashing Case

Defendant Failed to List Appeal After Incident at Tavern

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer entered a plea of innocent for a 23-year-old man accused of mayhem after he allegedly slashed the throat of an Appleton man Oct. 9 in front of a Kimberly bar.

Herman Cauley, who could give no permanent address, failed to enter any plea today and the court took the step of entering the innocent plea. Trial was set for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 6.

Police say Cauley was involved in a fight with Kim Williams, 23, 3800 Broadway Drive, in which Williams sustained a slashed throat that required 15 stitches.

The fight occurred in front of the Frelite Lounge after Williams argued over paying the cover charge to enter the building. Cauley's wife was working as a dancer at the lounge.

During the fight, Williams' throat was slashed by a razor blade utility knife. Cauley fled the scene.

He was arrested in Green Bay over a week later after police followed a tip that he was staying there. He temporarily fled by fleeing through a window in a motel and was apprehended after he was spotted riding in a cab.

Motions are expected by Cauley's counsel before the trial.

was defeated in the final vote. "Just because the money is there, we don't have to grab it. First we should decide what our aims and goals are," commented Mrs. Carmen Young. "It might cost us more to implement the program once we have the money, and we have to determine whether we are in a position to grab it," she added.

After a lengthy dispute the resolution was tabled, pending further consideration of the direction the library is taking.

Some board members also felt that it would be wise to wait for the result of Bill 47, which could change the face and the area of service of the library.

The bill makes it possible for communities to opt for a federated or a consolidated system, or go with neither.

The first type allows for area libraries to contract with a main library, but to remain autonomous. The other, means precisely what it says — consolidation.

Annexation Sought by 8 Property Owners

Eight Town of Grand Chute property owners have petitioned Appleton to annex six parcels of land that would have been brought into the city if the Fiesta Annexation had not been defeated by town voters last month.

The property, totaling about 7 acres, is located at the southeast corner of Richmond Street and Northland Avenue.

It includes an auto muffler shop, service station, food locker, plant and private home.

Unanimous

Petitioners include Gerald David and R. L. Erdman, Gordon and Loretta Rohm, Pearl Fraser and James and Rita Lee, all property owners.

Since the owners are unanimous in seeking annexation, the petition will not be subject to a referendum once it is accepted by the City Council.

City Atty. David Geenen said the land lies along routes of existing sewer and water mains, permitting immediate connection for service once the annexation is final.

Absence of public sewer and water service has been a motive behind past annexation efforts in the area where septic tank malfunctions long have been a problem.

Council, 'Bugged' By Fogging Plea, Finally Moves

An Appleton woman asked early in summer for the city to abstain from fogging mosquitoes in her neighborhood.

The City Council Tuesday acted on her request — approving a Board of Health decision to consider it next year.

The matter of discontinuing fogging within the block of Mrs. Hazel Sumnicht, 17 Silver Spur Lane, will be placed on file until next year's fogging season, the board reported.

But the delay doesn't matter. Due to unusual conditions including a sparse mosquito population this year, the city didn't use its fogging equipment all summer, and by now it's in winter storage.

Mrs. Sumnicht objects to the program due to respiratory problems she says it causes for her husband and son.

Drums for Cans Moved Indoors

Deposit stations for Appleton's recycling program will be put out of reach of possible Halloween pranksters — and of citizens mending, to make deposits — from Thursday night until next Monday.

The Public Works Department announced that Thursday the steel drums will be emptied of cans and bottles deposited for recycling and be moved inside the eight school buildings where the deposit stations are located.

The drums will be moved back outside Monday and collections of recycling materials will resume.

Police & Fire

NEENAH — Margaret Kuchinski, 65, of Green Bay, was treated and released from Theda Clark Hospital Monday for injuries received in an early morning accident on U.S. 41 four miles south of Neenah. She was a passenger in a car driven by John C. Kuchinski, 66, also of Green Bay, which struck the rear of a car which had stopped for a school bus that was being boarded by children.

The car which had stopped was driven by Robert H. Grapentine, 22, of 622 Jefferson St., Little Chute. Damage to the two autos was estimated at $2,500.

Kuchinski was cited for driving too fast to avoid a collision.

Appleton police are looking for two parking meters that disappeared from the East Ramp Monday night. The meters and posts were pulled out of the pavement. The units are valued at $90 each.

Appleton firemen were called to 318 N. Onondaga St. about 1:30 a.m. today when a fold-down camper trailer was burning.

The camper, belonging to John Smith, 617 N. Clark St., was extensively damaged.

my interest would enable me to make a contribution toward seeing that their government gives them the performance they deserve and the performance they have a right to expect," Sutherland concluded.

As a staff aide to Byrnes, Sutherland's responsibilities included assistance to communities with federal problems and liaison with federal agencies on behalf of local governments.

Sutherland graduated from Appleton High School in 1953 and received his bachelor of science degree from Georgetown University in 1957. He was in the Marine Corps from 1957-1960.

Before taking the assignment with Byrnes, Sutherland was a life insurance underwriter.

books with a $1,500 check received in settlement of a price fixing lawsuit.

The salary claim represents the difference between the rate approved by the board and the lower sum granted by the council. The lawsuit settlement will go into the city's general fund, as a result of a separate vote of 14-6.

Sought readmission to the federal Emergency Employment Act for hiring unemployed and underemployed persons for public jobs, by creating an appraisal analyst's post in the assessor's office and hiring three police cadets in the Police Department. The action reverses the effects of a recent veto by Mayor George Buckley.

Freed Public Works Director Robert Miller to order special collections of cans and bottles for the city's waste recycling program from establishments that produce quantities too large for deposit at the voluntary deposit stations.

Approved the Fire Department's "Red Ball" fire safety project to place red stickers in children's bedroom windows to guide firemen in rescues during fires. The Appleton Junior Women's Club will take names of parents wishing to have stickers placed in their homes, and fire fighters will apply the stickers.

Denied, on request of Ald. Donald Day (19th), a petition to rezone property in his ward on Bell Avenue east of Mason Street for apartment use. Present zoning is for two-family residences. Day said the change, also denied last year, will lead to multiple-family zoning on surrounding land, to the detriment of nearby single-family neighborhoods. The council still may be required legally to conduct a public hearing, unless the petitioner, Winter Realty, Inc., withdraws the request.

Approved public hearings on three zoning changes from single-family residential to apartment, light industrial and general commercial, respectively, in three adjoining areas of the 9th Ward south of Hoover Avenue and east of Onondaga Street, in the Roeland Annexation area. The changes are in line with land-use recommendations by the planning director.

Welfare Mothers...

was pointed out.

Van Susteren said that such a system would be impractical and unnecessary. He noted that mothers quickly complain when a payment fails to appear.

He also said that the computer would provide misinformation. Payments might have been stopped because of many legitimate reasons, he said.

Ennsley said he had to be careful not to haul a father into court without cause. However, he said that if it could be shown a father could but didn't pay, he would be prosecuted.

Van Susteren emphasized that as a judge, he must consider many things, including that the husbands have enough money to pay on debts, insurance and for "a near decent" standard of living.

He said that if the husband isn't left enough, he may become disheartened and leave his job; be unable to pay debts and face garnishment and possible loss of job. Then no money is coming to the mother, he added.

Mothers Fail

Ennsley said he believed the greatest weakness in the divorce and support payment system was the mother's failure to meet responsibilities.

He cited one man who was behind on payments. When the man talked to Ennsley about this, he related that his ex-wife had had two illegitimate children since the divorce, and she wanted more money to help support them. Ennsley said

"It's becoming evident to me that some of these mothers should have the children taken from them," he said.

Miss Johnson told mothers that her office received an additional 14 support accounts per week, with the total at nearly 950.

Spice said he had about 120 open warrants for ex-husbands, but he added that these dated back to 1943. He estimated that about 75 still are active.

Firm Leasing Kroger Store

Nongrocery Retail Operation Opening Dec. 1: Kramlich

The recently closed Kroger Co. supermarket at W. College Avenue and N. Richmond Street will be opened Dec. 1 by a nongrocery retail firm.

Kenneth Kramlich, president of K-Way Stores, Inc., Appleton, said that the store will be leased to a firm which he said would announce the opening in November.

The store was closed in August, along with other Kroger stores in Wisconsin as the firm began closing out its 55 operations in the state.

The Kroger stores at Valley Fair Shopping Center and Prange's Budget Center on W. College Avenue have been sold to Wisconsin Distributing Co. of Neenah, Inc., parent firm of Food Queen Supermarkets.

Kramlich said the Northland Plaza store, closed last summer after only a year operation, and the Neenah store still haven't been sold.

Kramlich is the son of Clarence Kramlich, Appleton, now residing in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who owned Krambo, Inc., Appleton. Kroger purchased the W. College, the Valley Fair and Neenah stores in 1955 from Krambo.

The W. College store building is owned by Steinmeyer, Inc., Appleton holding company in the Kramlich family. Kramlich said that Steinmeyer would continue to own the building.

The Kramlichs also own three stores in Milwaukee and one in Waukesha which Jewel Companies, Inc., is taking over. Kramlich said Jewel would lease three stores in the Milwaukee shopping centers and had purchased the store in Waukesha.

Kroger still has 12 unsold stores in Wisconsin. Among stores unpurchased are single stores in Fond du Lac and Beaver Dam.

This is the first real attempt to try to make the unity in the Fox Cities Lutheran Council was organized last year in an attempt to develop a closer working relationship between St. Paul Lutheran Church, Neenah, coordinator of the concert, Henry F. Scheig, Appleton, is the president.

You Needn't be Oriental to Cook 'Chinese'

BY FRIDA KAYE

NEW YORK — Recognizing China may have its pros and cons, but there's not much debate about Chinese cooking. Everyone seems to favor it. According to one observer, "It's nearly as American as apple pie." She is Gloria Bley Miller, author of "The Thousand Recipe Chinese Cookbook."

Chinese food is popular, Mrs. Miller points out, because it's stimulating to the palate, economical and healthful. The Chinese, she observes, eat less than half the meat we do, considerable amounts of seafood and poultry and plenty of vegetables.

You see very few fat Chinese," she maintains, "because they're not as keen about rich heavy foods and sweets as we are." Some nutritionists she says, "have called this the diet of the future and many overweight Americans in their middle years might find it sensible right now."

Americans have eaten Chinese food in restaurants for years. Gloria Miller de- clares, "but they didn't think themselves capable of cooking it at home." Many, she claims, had the curious notion that you had to be Oriental to do so. "Yet no one ever expected you to be Spanish to prepare paella or French to whip up a soufflé." Fortunately, these attitudes are changing, she says.

Supermarket Simplicity

Chinese cooking, the author explains, is not very mysterious. Once you understand that it's more a matter of method than of ingredients.

Many techniques, such as stir-frying, deep-frying and stewing are already familiar, she says. The most unusual method is "stir-frying," a quick-cooking technique that requires less than five minutes on the stove. "It makes the meat succulent and the vegetables unbelievably crisp," she reports.

Mrs. Miller maintains that anyone can prepare authentic Chinese dishes with standard ingredients available in any supermarket. Special equipment, she insists, isn't necessary either. "Ordinary pots and pans can do the job as well. And having a good cookbook helps, of course."

The author, who spent five years writing her book, reports she applied for a visa to visit China when the American ping-pong players were touring there this spring. However, she hasn't received that visa yet. "The Chinese are inviting doctors, scientists, top journalists and political figures now," she comments. "It may be a while before they get around to cookbook writers."

"The Thousand Recipe Chinese Cookbook," winner of the Tastemaker Award, is published in the United States by Grosset and Dunlap. It's also published in England and Germany.

Your Problems

Few Minutes Spent Save a Life

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Would you do your readers a favor and print this letter? I am recovering from tuberculosis, which was detected early. I am in my mid-twenties and had never been sick before in my life. When the TB trailer was in our neighborhood, I was in a hurry but decided to take the few minutes. Those few minutes may have saved my life.

Many people still have old notions about TB. Would you please set them straight? In order to catch TB a person must be run down and susceptible. After a brief time on medication the TB patient is not contagious. Also, when a person has been declared well by his doctor, he is as capable a worker as he was before he became sick. Many people have written to tell me they are sorry about my illness and they hope someone will be kind and hire me. Please inform your readers that a person who has had TB is extremely health-conscious and will get regular medical check-ups which makes him a better employment risk than most people. Thanks a lot — 00 Per Cent O.K.

Dear O.K. Bravo! Thanks for giving me the opportunity to get some vital information to 34 million readers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married into a rather strange family. I told myself I was marrying Len and not his relatives but these people are beginning to get to me. The thing I find most irritating is the way my mother-in-law makes such a point of how people look.

I'm no beauty, but I wouldn't scare small children either. My mother-in-law never stops talking about how beautiful this one is and how "gorgeous" that one is. We went to a luncheon yesterday and on the way home she poked endlessly about the women who were there. Did I think A was "plain," B was "homely," C was "unattractive," D was "stunning," E was "magnificent," F was "a knockout." I was so depressed by the time I got home, I had a headache.

Please give me some advice on how to handle this — Unhappy With My Looks

Dear Un: Interesting that the real problem showed up not in your letter but in your signature. One thing is certain, you are not going to change your mother-in-law, so you'd better change your attitude toward her. Make sure you look as good as you can in her presence—then forget it. The important thing is that you get along with her son—and to heck with the rest of it. It doesn't matter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Bless you for speaking out against bridal showers that soak everybody to the skin. I could have kissed you when I read that column.

I live in a small town where the same people get invited to everything. We just got through paying for the shower gifts and the wedding present and here comes an ad in the paper "Baby Shower Everybody Welcome." Now I ask you, is this nerve? After helping to furnish the bride's home we are asked to dress her kid. What is the matter with these people that they can't see it?

In between the bridal shower and the baby announcement is an invitation to a tea in honor of the parents' 25th wedding anniversary. Then the little brother graduates from high school and we have to send a fountain pen. Am I the only person besides you who believes this is terrible? Please let my mind at ease. I met me. I think I'm a little goofy on the subject — Party Popped and Picky Pocket-Lon.

Dear PP and PP: We aren't alone. I received a raft of letters from women who feel the same way. I'll repeat my advice. These rabby grumps will continue as long as women accept invitations. The only solution is a boycott after one shower. And I suggest a $5 gift-limit.

Alcohol is no help out to a woman. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Prove and Sober Up." Teen Age. Only by Age 16 and over. Send 35 cents for a long, off address and I'll send you a copy. Request.

Mrs. Emil Prah! Cited as 'Horticulturist of Year'

WEYAUWEGA — Mrs. Emil Prah!, a charter member of the Weyauwega Garden Club, was recently cited as Horticulturist of the Year for the Central Region at the 22nd Annual Convention of the Garden Clubs of Wisconsin at Kenosha.

Mrs. Prah! and her husband maintain a half-acre vegetable and flower garden at the junction of U.S. 10 and County Trunk X, just west of the Weyauwega city limits. Parsnips, peanuts, kale, okra, celery and ruby Swiss chard, in addition to the more common plants, abound in their plot.

Three or four bushels of gladioli corms are set in the ground with the help of an old-fashioned potato planter. Between 30 and 40 varieties of annuals bedeck the garden every season. Each year Mrs. Prah! tries her hand with some new and unusual species.

Her perennials, always a colorful display, include lilies, which she started from seeds, irises, delphiniums, peonies, red gaillardia, lupines and carnations. This year her yucca reached maturity and bloom-

The Prah! yard is landscaped with a variety of trees and shrubs designed to attract birds. Mrs. Prah! is an avid bird watcher and provides them with winter feed.

Further Knowledge

The citation winner subscribes to numerous gardening magazines to keep up with the latest trends in the field.

Presently, she is experimenting with the use of newspapers for garden mulch.

Mrs. Prah!, who has furthered her knowledge of flowers and arrangements by attending holiday workshop and flower arranging classes at Fox Valley Technical Institute-Appleton also has been studying ceramics for four years.

She has earned many blue ribbon awards at flower shows and the Waupaca County Fair.

Her collection of colorful slides has been an asset in her capacity as slide chairman of the State Garden Club. She also served two year terms as treasurer of the Weyauwega club.

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

Turning Your Child on To Language Through Poetry

Traditionally, mothers sing and tell nursery rhymes to their infants. It's a great way to reach babies with the sound of language and to introduce them to speech in a playful manner. But as children grow older, most parents stop using rhyme to stimulate and teach them. A four-year-old can understand that some words rhyme and this fact can be turned into a game in the car, over your dinner table, or at bed-time. Pre-schoolers are very receptive to jingles and doggerel (they remember and recite those awful TV commercials endlessly) and even free verse. With a little encouragement they'll make up their own ditties and poems expanding their ability to use words, to express ideas and to communicate them to others. Recite and read poetry to your pre-schooler, but don't make him memorize it. It then turns into a resented chore. Read poetry dramatically, but don't stop at the end of each line in a sing-song cadence. Read each sentence and pause, as you would if you read prose. Your tot will remember those poems you read frequently that appeal to him most. He might just as well forget the rest.

A frequent reading of poetry to children — and encouraging them to make up their own — can start them on the road to literacy. Still, no reading list exists that might help you in choosing which poetry collections are most useful for children of different ages, levels of maturity and understanding. And teachers colleges, though they offer "Language Arts" courses and multi-media curricula neglect this area of early childhood education. Not one that I know offers a course in children's poetry. If they did, there would be less need for remedial reading instruction and gadgets.

The following four excellent collections of children's poetry may help you arouse your child's interest. The first three have been compiled by Lee Bennett Hopkins, who believes that such anthologies should reflect both old and modern ideas — nursery lore and poems about space capsules. He has found that children who suffer language and reading handicaps can be helped substantially by poems that deal with subjects of current interest. Among his books are Me (publ. by Seabury, N.Y. $3.95), for children three years old and up. The poems in this collection deal with things a child knows — his own body and limbs, loneliness and friendship. I Think I Saw A Snail (publ. by Crown, N.Y. $3.50), is for children through third grade ages. City Seasons are the theme of this collection of poems. Mr. Hopkins' most recent book Pass The Poetry Please (publ. by Citation Press, N.Y. $2.00) is a paperback that will be published in April 1972. Yet another good compilation of poetry for children, Bring Down The Valleys Wild (publ. by Dell paperback 75 cents) has been compiled by Nancy Larrick, a Professor of Education at Lehigh University. This collection ranges from Robert Louis Stevenson to John Ciardi.

Mr. Hopkins and Miss Larrick are among the few who have a feeling for children and for poetry. They know which kind of poetry stimulates an interest in language in young children. Both have combed the literature for ideas, sounds and rhymes that are imaginative and child like. Happily they have excluded the tired old stand-bys like "Hiawatha" that have driven generations of children away from poetry.

Go to your nearest public library or book store with this list of four books in hand. Play rhyming games with your child and encourage him to use words in a whimsical manner. Then his innate curiosity and his sense of language won't be perverted by rhymes like "tastes good like a cigarette should."

If you are a PTA or school board official, a pre-school or elementary teacher or principal, head up a daycare center or teach at a teacher's college, I can offer you a FREE recording of this year's Caldecott medal winning children's book, A Story, A Story by Gail E. Halev. It has a part of her acceptance speech on the other side. This offer will be honored for a limited time only. Send your name and address on the official letterhead of the organization or institution of which you are a member to me, Arnold Arnold, care of this newspaper.

ON BRIDGE

IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

The most authoritative work on the game of bridge is the "Official Encyclopedia of Bridge." The encyclopedia is authorized by The American Contract Bridge League and prepared by its editorial staff. It covers every aspect of the game and is a must for the serious bridge player.

Today's hand is taken from the Encyclopedia. It describes a rare end-game situation where declarer, offered a ruff and discard, must ruff in both hands to make the hand. The hand was originally presented by Jean Besse of Switzerland.

Vulnerable: None
Dealer: West

NORTH 10/27		SOUTH
♠ K J 10 2	♥ Q J 8	♠ 9 4 3	♥ Q 9
♦ Q J 8	♣ K 10 4 3	♦ A 9 3	♣ Q 8 5
♠ K 3	♦ A 10 7 4	♠ J 2

West 1 ♠ Pass
North 1 ♠ Pass
East 3 ♠ Pass
South 3 ♦ Pass

Opening lead: Two of hearts.

East's bid of three clubs over North's double is known as a "barricade" bid. It promises good trumps, useful distribution and limited high cards. South refused to be shut out and his three-diamond bid bought the contract.

West led the heart deuce and dummy's eight forced East's king. Declarer led a diamond to dummy and played the king when West played low. Declarer cashed two high hearts and then exited with a diamond. West cashed two diamonds and led a low club. Declarer guessed correctly and played dummy's king. He then played another club to West's ace. This was the position.

NORTH 10/27		SOUTH
♠ K J 10 2	♥ Q J 8	♠ 9 4 3	♥ Q 9
♦ Q J 8	♣ K 10 4 3	♦ A 9 3	♣ Q 8 5
♠ K 3	♦ A 10 7 4	♠ J 2

West made the best play of a club (a spade would make things easy). At this point, if declarer discards any spade and ruffs in his hand, he cannot make the hand. West can cover any spade lead and declarer will not be able to get to dummy without losing two tricks.

The only winning play is for declarer to ruff the club in dummy and to overruff with his queen. Declarer then leads the spade nine and West is helpless. If West ducks his spade ace, he will take only one spade trick. If he takes the spade ace, he must either lead spades for a finesse, or lead clubs to give declarer another entry for the spade finesse.

BY LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you think all it takes to marry off a daughter is money, you're wrong.
You also need a groom, and he's got to be at the wedding — which is where I ran into problems.

Andy Williams
Still on List of Besi Dressed

By THOMAS A. REEDY
LONDON (AP) — Tailor and Cutter, arbiter of men's fashions in Britain, today chose one of its own as the "best dressed man of 1971."
Colin Hammick, tall and elegant designer for the Savile Row firm of H. Huntsman and Sons, won the accolade, ahead of American singer Andy Williams.

The remaining eight of the 10 "best" include soccer players, actors and English noblemen.
The men's fashion magazine distributed the ballots among the trade in July and the editors said early returns soon showed that Hammick was winning in a walk.

The result was described by the tailor's "bible" as "a return to elegance... except that Mr. Hammick has never been anything else."

His wardrobe ranges from beige colored velvets and linens to the traditional dark suits, all of them currently one button, fairly wide lapels, cuffless trousers, and topped off with big shirt collars and big knotted neckties.

Andy Williams is the only non-European or Briton to make the list. He is regarded as a little less formal man "who not only puts over a pleasing personality but also a pleasing appearance."

Sharing third place were actor Rex Harrison and French heart-throb Alain Delon.

Fourth place being vacant, fifth went to another tie — actor Robert Morley of the big girl, pendulous jowls and biting wit, ranged against spindly-legged George Best, Britain's soccer idol who sends youngsters screaming like the old Beatles used to do.

Delon's colleague in France, Jean Paul Belmondo, captured seventh place and then came somewhat of a surprise for eighth in the 76-year-old Duke of Windsor. The former King Edward VIII and Prince of Wales still sets a merry pace in attire as he did for several generations.

Bobby Moore, another British soccer star, came ninth and winding up the list is Lord Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret.

To get the whole happy expensive mess into proper focus we turn back to last year after my miss and her fella, senior classmates at Temple University, got engaged and set the date.
He had just joined the Army Reserves and was awaiting callup for five months of active duty, hoping to time it to make the wedding, finish some courses for a B.A. degree and start law school.

Weeks passed, then months, but no Army orders.
Time was critical. Too late an Army reporting date would mean my prospective son-in-law would miss classes and the wedding date.

Call the Army.
"You know people," my worried wife said. "Call the Army, call your senator, call anybody."

I already had, zeroing in on the Defense Department and its military red tape through Pennsylvania's two U.S. senators, Hugh Scott and Richard Schweiker. After all, the young man wasn't trying to get out of the Army, he was trying to get in and having no luck.

My wife was getting frantic, and so was my daughter. The caterer, the florist, the photographer and the orchestra leader also might have been concerned if they knew the dilemma and how it might cut them out of a big payoff in a cancellation or elopement.

About this time a year ago, President Nixon was on the election trail and planning for a quick Pennsylvania stopover at Lancaster to plug a candidate for governor who never made it. I took the missus along on the assignment hoping to get her mind off a wedding still seven months away.

Good thinking? Well, not exactly the way it was originally figured. Women just won't listen.

When the President, after his speech, moved past newsmen on the way to the White House helicopter, my wife stuck out a hand to say hello, and Nixon grabbed it. She wouldn't let go.

"Mr. President, can you help a young man get called to active duty in the Army?" she asked — a determined mother, cool, calm and collected.

That demolished me, usually cool, calm and collected. "Who is this young man?" Nixon asked.

President Intrigued
"The man my daughter is going to marry," which intrigued the President even more and increased my embarrassment as he pursued the topic.

My wife explained the Army delay and finalized her concern with a touch of diplomacy. "You know how it is with daughters?"

Nodding (no kidding), the President suggested she write to his military aide, which she did. And I kept prodding my senators, who kept prodding the Pentagon, and the orders finally came — on time. And nobody took any credit because I'm certain the Army did it all by itself.

So now you think everyone lived happily ever after? Not quite.

First, the Army lost the young man's travel orders. Then he had to sweat out a two-week leave scheduled in the middle of his training, which he didn't want, and finally was able to stay on duty.

Finally he finished training and came home a week before he had to answer wedding bells.

Okay? Not okay. My daughter cried because the Army cut her guy's hair too short.

"Sorry," I said. "The President can't do a thing about it."

Notes on Nuts Show Uses

"By now many of you have already gathered your hickory nuts, chestnuts, and maybe even some walnuts. This year is considered to be a good year for collecting them," according to Kathryn Smith, extension home economist, Winnebago County.

Nuts contribute rich flavor and crunchy texture to many kinds of foods and they are not only tasty but also nutritious. Familiar dishes take on new interest when nuts are added. They are filling because of their fat content, and may prevent between-meal hunger pangs that encourage nibbling.

To maintain best eating quality, most nuts need protection from oxygen in the air and from high temperatures that may cause the fat in the fruits to become rancid.

Nuts in the shell retain high quality longer than shelled nuts. Whole nuts become rancid less quickly than nuts in pieces. Unroasted nuts keep better than roasted ones.

Those in the shell keep well in a bowl at room temperature for a short period of time. For prolonged storage, keep them in a cool, dry place. Avoid storing in a damp place.

Shelled nuts will keep fresh for several months stored in tightly closed containers in the refrigerator. Those in unopened cans keep well in a cool, dry place but will maintain good quality longer in the refrigerator or freezer.

Shelled or unshelled nuts can be frozen in tightly closed freezer containers at 0 degrees (F) or lower.

Chestnuts are perishable at room temperature, but will keep several months in the refrigerator in loosely covered containers or in ventilated plastic bags, she advises.

"With proper storage and care, the nuts that you have gathered this fall can be used in food preparation for many months."

Area Auxiliary
Reports on Recent Projects

LITTLE CHUTE — At a recent potluck supper, members of the American Legion Auxiliary approved donations amounting to $100 for the USO Radio Free Europe, Veterans Day program and Christmas cheer for hospitalized veterans.

A report by the community service committee showed auxiliary volunteers had recently completed weighing, measuring and assisting with eye testing for children at various schools and participating in immunization clinics sponsored by the county.

Mrs. Sherman Kapp, Appleton, ninth district president, reported on a national convention held at Houston, Tex. Miss Susan Heesakker and Miss Susan Van Lieshout, Badger Girl State representatives, reported on their experiences at the summer camp.

Legion Women
Plan Dinner
For Nov. 10

KAUKAUNA — Plans for a Nov. 10, county council dinner meeting for which the local unit will be host, were discussed at a recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The affair will be held at the Hyland House and reservations are to be made by calling secretary, Mrs. Fred Mason by Nov. 6. Women in charge include president, Mrs. George E. Greenwood, Mrs. Stuart Black, Mrs. Oliver Wheaton and Mrs. Mason.

Plans also were discussed for a Christmas party in December which will include a covered dish dinner and a candy and cookie sale. Mrs. Alfred Marzahl, rehabilitation chairman, announced that gifts for the veterans' hospital gift shops will be acceptable at the Nov. 8 meeting.

Members learned the unit was to receive a citation for surpassing last year's membership. Co-chairmen of the meeting were Mrs. Herbert Fassbender and Miss Margaret Courtney.

Miss Ahearn to Lecture
On Personality, Stress

A lecture for women of the community entitled, "Your Personality and Stress" will be presented at the Appleton YMCA Nov. 3 from 9 to 11 a.m.

Mary Catherine Ahearn, lecturer, will discuss: Is stress something new? Is all stress harmful? Is it ever necessary for accomplishment and happiness? Do people have various stress levels? How can you determine yours? Can you find in your life three kinds of stress: 1 — those you accept; 2 — those you invite; 3 — those you can and should resist.

Miss Ahearn is a former instructor in modeling and counselor in professional careers for Patricia Stevens Career College and Finishing School both before the cameras and in writing and direction for several years. Before that she taught at the college level in sociology and social psychology and for three years was a member of the National Speakers' Bureau for the Peace Corps traveling throughout the Midwest.

She did graduate work at Marquette University and the State University of New York and holds a certificate in educational research from the National Teaching Research Institute in Monmouth, Ore.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you think all it takes to marry off a daughter is money, you're wrong.
You also need a groom, and he's got to be at the wedding — which is where I ran into problems.

Andy Williams Still on List of Best Dressed

By THOMAS A. REEDY
LONDON (AP) — Tailor and Cutter, arbiter of men's fashions in Britain today chose one of its own as the 'best dressed man of 1971'.
Colin Hammuck, tall and elegant designer for the Savile Row firm of H. Huntsman and Sons, won the accolade ahead of American singer Andy Williams.
The remaining eight of the 10 "best" include soccer players, actors and English noblemen.
The men's fashion magazine distributed the ballots among the trade in July and the editors said early returns soon showed that Hammuck was winning in a walk.
The result was described by the tailor's bible as a return to elegance except that Mr Hammuck has never been anything else.
His wardrobe ranges from beige colored velvets and linens to the traditional dark suits, all of them currently one button fairly wide lapels cuffless trousers, and topped off with big shirt collars and big knotted neckties.
Andy Williams is the only non-European or Briton to make the list. He is regarded as a little less formal man who not only puts over a pleasing personality but also a pleasing appearance.
Sharing third place were actor Rex Harrison and French heart-throb Alain Delon.
Fourth place being vacant fifth went to another tie — actor Robert Morley of the big girth, pendulous jewels and bating wit, ranged against spindly-legged George Best, Britain's soccer idol who sends youngsters screaming like the old Beatles used to do.
Delon's colleague in France Jean Paul Belmondo captured seventh place and then came somewhat of a surprise for eighth in the 76-year-old Duke of Windsor. The former King Edward VIII and Prince of Wales still sets a merry pace in attire as he did for several generations.
Bobby Moore another British soccer star, came ninth and winding up the list is Lord Snowdon husband of Princess Margaret.

To get the whole happy expensive mess into proper focus we turn back to last year after my miss and her fella, senior classmates at Temple University, got engaged and set the date.
He had just joined the Army Reserves and was awaiting callup for five months of active duty, hoping to time it to make the wedding finish some courses for a B.A. degree and start law school.
Weeks passed, then months but no Army orders.
Time was critical. Too late an Army reporting date would mean my prospective son-in-law would miss classes and the wedding date.
Call the Army.
You know people my worried wife said "Call the Army call your senator, call anybody."
I already had zeroing in on the Defense Department and its military red tape through Pennsylvania's two U.S. senators, Hugh Scott and Richard Schweiker. After all, the young man wasn't trying to get out of the Army, he was trying to get in and having no luck.
My wife was getting frantic and so was my daughter. The caterer the florist, the photographer and the orchestra leader also might have been concerned if they knew the dilemma and how it might cut them out of a big payoff in a cancellation or elopement.
About this time a year ago, President Nixon was on the

Legion Women Plan Dinner For Nov. 10

KAUKAUNA — Plans for a Nov. 10, county council dinner meeting for which the local unit will be host, were discussed at a recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.
The affair will be held at the Hyland House and reservations are to be made by calling secretary, Mrs. Fred Mason by Nov. 6. Women in charge include president Mrs. George E. Greenwood Mrs. Stuart Black Mrs. Oliver Wheaton and Mrs. Mason.
Plans also were discussed for a Christmas party in December which will include a covered dish dinner and a candy and cookie sale. Mrs. Alfred Marzahl, rehabilitation chairman, announced that gifts for the veterans hospital gift shops will be acceptable at the Nov. 8 meeting.
Members learned the unit was to receive a citation for surpassing last year's membership. Co-chairmen of the meeting were Mrs. Herbert Fassbender and Miss Margaret Courtney.

Miss Ahearn to Lecture On Personality, Stress

A lecture for women of the community entitled "Your Personality and Stress" will be presented at the Appleton YMCA Nov. 3 from 9 to 11 a.m.
Marv Catherine Ahearn, lecturer will discuss "Is stress something new? Is all stress harmful? Is it ever necessary for accomplishment and happiness? Do people have various stress levels? How can you determine yours? Can you find in your life three kinds of stress 1 — those you accept 2 — those you invite 3 — those you can and should resist."
Miss Ahearn is a former instructor in modeling and counselor in professional careers for Patricia Stevens Career College and Finishing School and worked in television both before the cameras and in writing and direction for several years. Before that she taught at the college level in sociology and social psychology and for three years was a member of the National Speakers Bureau for the Peace Corps traveling throughout the Midwest.
She did graduate work at Marquette University and the State University of New York and holds a certificate in educational research from the National Teaching Research Institute in Monmouth, Ore.
She lectures in the areas of word dynamics communication and visual poise and has conducted numerous seminars in the field of kinesics — a study which has been popularized in the phrase body language — as well as workshops for the study of leadership for women.

election trail and planning for a quick Pennsylvania stopover at Lancaster to plug a candidate for governor who never made it took the missus along on the assignment hoping to get her mind off a wedding still seven months away.
Good thinking? Well not exactly the way it was original figured. Women just won't listen.
When the President, after his speech, moved past newsmen on the way to the White House helicopter my wife stuck out a hand to say hello and Nixon grabbed it. She wouldn't let go.
Mr. President can you help a young man get called to active duty in the Army?" she asked — a determined mother, cool calm and collected.
That demolished me usually cool, calm and collected.
"Who is this young man?" Nixon asked.
President Intrigued.
"The man my daughter is going to marry," which intrigued the President even more and increased my embarrassment as he pursued the topic.
My wife explained the Army delay and finalized her concern with a touch of diplomacy. You know how it is with daughters.
"Nodding (no kidding) the President suggested she write to his military aide, which she did. And I kept prodding my senators, who kept prodding the Pentagon, and the orders finally came — on time. And nobody took any credit because I'm certain the Army did it all by itself.

So now you think everyone lived happily ever after? Not quite.
First, the Army lost the young man's travel orders. Then he had to sweat out a two-week leave scheduled in the middle of his training, which he didn't want, and finally was able to stay on duty.
Finally he finished training and came home a week before he had to answer wedding bells.
"Okay? Not okay? My daughter cried because the Army cut her guy's hair too short." "Sorry," I said, "the President can't do a thing about it."

Notes on Nuts Show Uses

"By now many of you have already gathered your hickory nuts, chestnuts, and maybe even some walnuts. This year is considered to be a good year for collecting, them," according to Kathryn Smith, extension home economist, Winnebago County.
Nuts contribute rich flavor and crunchy texture to many kinds of foods and they are not only tasty but also nutritious. Familiar dishes take on new interest when nuts are added. They are filling because of their fat content, and may prevent between-meal hunger pangs that encourage nibbling.
To maintain best eating quality, most nuts need protection from oxygen in the air and from high temperatures that may cause the fat in the fruits to become rancid.
Nuts in the shell retain high quality longer than shelled nuts. Whole nuts become rancid less quickly than nuts in pieces. Unroasted nuts keep better than roasted ones.
Those in the shell keep well in a bowl at room temperature for a short period of time. For prolonged storage, keep them in a cool, dry place. Avoid storing in a damp place.
Shelled nuts will keep fresh for several months stored in tightly closed containers in the refrigerator. Those in unopened cans keep well in a cool, dry place but will maintain good quality longer in the refrigerator or freezer.
Shelled or unshelled nuts can be frozen in tightly closed freezer containers at 0 degrees (F) or lower.
Chestnuts are perishable at room temperature, but will keep several months in the refrigerator in loosely covered containers or in ventilated plastic bags, she advises.
With proper storage and care the nuts that you have gathered this fall can be used in food preparation for many months."

Mistakes Keep Us Too Close, Says Costello

Coach Not Happy With Erratic Floor Play of Milwaukee

By MIKE O'BRIEN

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Coach Larry Costello, who is repelled by turnovers the way a symphony conductor cringes at flats couldn't help but wonder Tuesday night at the awesome power his Milwaukee Bucks would have if they ever meshed their talents in total orchestration.

The Bucks were awesome enough, having just demolished the crippled Baltimore Bullets 120-90 for a seventh National Basketball Association victory without a loss.

The defending champions got 27 points from Bob Dandridge and 24 from Kareem Jabbar as they outshot the Bullets 52.1 per cent to 34.6 and dominated the boards 66-47. Jabbar had 13 rebounds.

Yet the Bucks committed 25 turnovers, and only the fact the Bullets made 22 themselves permitted the runaway.

Spot Lead

The Bucks spotted the Bullets an 8-2 lead, then outscored them 22-7—with Dandridge contributing eight points—to lead 34-21 at the quarter. They stretched the margin to 64-45 at halftime and 88-60 with 1.48 left in the third period.

Reserve Terry Driscoll led a mild Bullet comeback that cut it to 89-72 with 10 minutes to play before baskets by Jabbar, Lucius Allen and Dandridge got Milwaukee rolling again.

Archie Clark, whose suspension for jumping the team had been lifted Monday, scored 18 points in his first game for Baltimore while rookie Stan Love added 15 and Driscoll and Wes Unseld 14 each.

But while Unseld collected 17 rebounds, his movement is still impaired following knee surgery. The Bullets were without the suspended Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson, who is recovering from knee surgery.

Tresvant Injured

John Tresvant, who started in Johnson's place, aggravated a knee injury of his own and sat down after one minute.

"Our defense has been saving us," Costello complained. "Our offense just hasn't been steady. Why, if we ever put this thing together with the talent we have, well."

"We're averaging around 26 turnovers a game," he said. "If we could cut that to 16 or 17 that's an extra 12 shots just from ball handling."

Costello said he put the matter of turnovers to the players at halftime and invited discussion on how to solve it.

"It's our ball handling," he said. "We don't have that sharpness in passing, and we're not using good judgement. Defensively, I think we're rebounding better than ever and forcing them to take bad shots. I guess it's just a matter of time."

Another Chuck Sample Stars for Terror '11'

A second-generation Chuck Sample is strongly reminding veteran football fans of the "original model," who starred for Appleton High School and reached the professional level with the Green Bay Packers.

Chuck, Jr., will be playing his final game for Appleton West Friday night — and it will also be the biggest game of his career. The Terrors will meet Oshkosh with a chance to gain a share of the Fox Valley Association championship.

The elder Sample won all-Fox River Valley Conference honors with AHS, then competed at the University of Toledo and finally was signed by the Packers. Chuck, Sr., who played fullback and linebacker in the single-platoon era, was a member of the 1942 and '45 Packer teams. In the interim, he saw World War II military service.

most-cheered Terrors and one of the area's most-respected defensive players.

"Every team has been doubling up on him," says West Coach Paul Engen. This gives someone else a chance to zero in on the ball carrier, Engen added.

Named the Terrors' top defensive player last year, Sample again rates high on the team's "charts" this season Engen points out.

"Chuck has come up with outstanding plays so consistently, we almost assume he will keep on doing it," Engen noted.

The young Sample, who has been clocked in 5.0 seconds for the 40-yard dash, has "great quickness and is very strong," according to Engen. The coach also praised Sample's total dedication and concentration.

It's the usual for most players to take it a little easy at times during practice sessions, says Engen. "But I've never seen Chuck take time off or loaf."

Chuck Sr. has fond memories of his days with the Packers under Hall of Famer Curly Lambeau. "It was a pleasure to play with so many good players," he says. Among Sample's teammates were Don Hutson, Andy Uram, Cecil Isbell and Joe Laws.

Compile 8-2-1 Record

Sample said he was second-string full back, behind Ted Fritsch, but that he played a lot in '42 because of Fritsch's injuries. The Packers compiled an 8-2-1 record that year to finish close behind one of the greatest Chicago Bear teams.

After the '42 season, Sample went into the Army for three years. He came back for the final five games of the '45 campaign but says he didn't play a great deal.

After having competed four years for the Terrors (including his freshman year at Wilson), Sample went to the University of Toledo for two years. The 5-10, 205-pound Sample signed with the Packers after his sophomore year and played one season for the Bays' farm club, the Long Island Indians.

The elder Sample still follows the Packers. Their main problem right now is a "weak secondary," according to the ex-fullback. He says they may be "up there" again but that "it could take a long time to get enough good ballplayers."

Vikings Now Eye 'Avis' Role in MC

By JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

"If we can't be Hertz, we'll be Avis and try harder," said Lawrence University Coach Ron Roberts Tuesday.

Roberts was realistic in the wake of a tough, 21-18 loss to Ripon College last Saturday. He admitted that the football Vikings (4-2) have little real hopes — other than mathematical — for the title. LU trails Monmouth (6-0), Ripon (4-1) and St. Olaf (4-1) with only two league games left.

LU's head man was quick to point out that his team is a resilient group. "I think the only thing hurt was their pride... they really want to bounce back."

Roberts added, with undiminished enthusiasm, "This is an exciting bunch to work with."

3 More Games

The Vikes have a home non-conference date with Beloit Saturday, before rounding out the league schedule by entertaining Cornell and invading St. Olaf.

For the first time, in almost a month, Roberts has no "lost for the season" injury report to ponder. The Vikes came out of the thriller at Ripon in good shape.

Roberts said the Ripon contest was "a good game" that could have gone either way.

Ripon Coach John Storzer has been quoted as saying "I'm glad that one's behind us."

"We just ran out of time," Roberts pointed out. In the warning moments, Ripon elected to take a safety rather than having to punt from its own end zone. LU regained possession with 41 seconds left and got back down to the Redmen's 33-yard line when the game ended.

Roberts didn't pinpoint any one play as the turning point of the game. He cited several key incidents — such as the inter-

Roche, DeLisle to See More Duty Defensive Changes Hinted

GREEN BAY — The National Football League trading deadline came and went Tuesday without creating so much as a ripple upon the Packer scene.

It wasn't for lack of effort — Personnel Director Pat Peppler spent a substantial portion of the day on the telephone attempting to effect a last minute exchange — but the price invariably was too high.

He presumably was seeking help for a surprisingly porous defense, which has yielded 85 points in the last three games, consecutive losses to the Lions, Vikings and Rams.

The Packers did make one personnel move, but it was "future" in nature. Defensive back John (Butch) Davis, added to the taxi squad earlier this month, was waived to make room for the return of rookie placekicker Tim Webster.

Revise Defense

Although he went empty-handed in the trade market, Coach Dan Devine indicated he still intends to revise his defense for next Monday night's date with the Detroit Lions in Milwaukee County Stadium.

"We'll make a few lineup changes," he revealed following Tuesday's practice, longest Tuesday workout of the season. But he declined to name names at that point, asserting, "I could be more specific tomorrow morning."

One change was indicated by implication during Tuesday's practice. It found Alden Roche, a bristling standout in a reserve role to date, running at right end with the first defensive unit.

The position has been the exclusive property of Lionel Aldridge since 1963, when he broke into the starting lineup as a rookie.

Temporary Thing

Another likely to be affected, on the basis of recent developments, is second year corner-back Al Matthews. Devine indirectly indicated this possibility in a Monday observation. "If we feel that someone else can play better than Al, then we'll have to play him," he said. "Al will have to understand this. It may be a temporary thing until he gets more experience."

If a change should be made at the right corner, it could involve a realignment in the secondary. If experience is considered the primary need at this point, it could be injected by inserting six-year veteran Al Randolph at strong safety and transferring Doug Hart from that station to the right corner.

Hart, who has had a few problems at safety in recent weeks, was a starter at cornerback in 1965 before giving way to Bob Jeter in the NFL championship game that year. Devine earlier hinted at other

Dalton Expected To Accept Job With Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Angels were expected to name Baltimore Orioles executive Harry Dalton as their new general manager today. But both parties are saying they know nothing about it.

Dalton, 44, the Orioles' vice president in charge of player personnel, said Tuesday he had no knowledge of a statement by Angel President Bob Reynolds that he would be named general manager at a news conference today.

The Los Angeles Times quoted Reynolds Monday as saying he was "optimistic" that the appointment could be announced Wednesday. But a public relations spokesman for the Angels said Tuesday that no such news conference was scheduled.

A Los Angeles radio sports commentator, Jim Healy of KLAC, reported Tuesday night that Dalton had agreed to assume the post.

The Central Wisconsin Conference football commissioner could not have scheduled a more appropriate finale!

The last game on the slate (Saturday afternoon) shows front-running Manawa (4-0-1) for what has turned out to be the championship game.

In Friday's CWC curtain-closers, Marion travels to Birnamwood entertains Shiocton. If Shiocton beats W.B. and Marion upsets Bonduel, the Chiefs will finish in third-place ahead of the Bears.

The Mustangs must post a win in order to claim their first league title since they joined the conference in 1970. But the Wolves can duel the villagers to a tie and still be crowned the undisputed champions.

Trouble With Bonduel

The only real trouble both teams have encountered in CWC play occurred with they played Bonduel. The Wolves duelled the pesky Bears to a 0-0 stalemate, while LC was defeated, 14-8, last Friday night.

Statistically, the game will match the conference's highest scoring offense (the Chuters), against the stingiest defense (Manawa). The Mustangs have mustered together 126 points in five games, while the Wolves have allowed a mere 14 in the never did seem to catch up with him."

Blue Just 'Pooped Out' Mentally

By ERIC PREWITT

OAKLAND (AP) — "The way I look at this year is that it helped prepare me for next season," said Vida Blue, the American League's Cy Young Award winner.

his first major league baseball season, had a 24-8 record, eight shutouts and a 1.82 earned-run average as he pitched the Oakland Athletics to the Western Division title.

He is the youngest player ever to win the award and is considered a strong contender for the league's Most Valuable Player Award, to be made next month.

"I'll never get that one. They can't give me everything," Blue said Tuesday after the Baseball Writers Association of America named him the league's best pitcher.

He was surprised at the outcome of the Cy Young Award voting, saying, "I really thought Mickey Lolich would win it, but I'm glad I did."

Lolich of the Detroit Tigers was runner-up in the voting and Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox finished third. Blue got 14 of the 24 first-place votes, Lolich nine and Wood one.

All Southpaws

Lolich and Wood, also southpaws, finished the season strong while Blue was tailing off from a sizzling start that made him baseball's biggest drawing card. Lolich finished 25-14 and Wood was 22-13.

"The last part of the season I was just pooped," Blue said. "But it wasn't my arm. It was all that pressure from the publicity. I just couldn't take it mentally."

Blue, a handsome bachelor, signed with the A's after a great high school athletic career at Mansfield, La.

He got some national attention last year with a no-hitter against the Minnesota Twins in a late-season stay with the A's. But he took baseball fans largely by surprise this year, and more than a million paid to see him pitch.

"I guess a lot of people came out to see if I was for real," said Blue.

He won 19 games before his 22nd birthday on July 28. Two 1-0 losses and a game in which he pitched 11 shutout innings, and left with the score 0-0, later helped ruin his chance to win 30 games.

Rockets Finally Post Win, Nip Pistons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill van Breda Kolff was fit to be tied.

The coach of the Detroit Pistons fumed over a goal-tending call in the last four seconds of play that gave the Houston Rockets a 104-103 nod over the Pistons in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night.

"Elvin Hayes was all over the basket," the Pistons coach screamed. "Bob Lanier didn't touch it."

With time running out and Detroit leading 103-102, Mike Newlin got off a jump shot for the Rockets. Hayes and Lanier both went up in the air from underneath the basket.

Referee Kenny Hudson ruled that Lanier knocked the ball off the rim. He called it goal-tending and awarded the winning basket to Newlin. It was Houston's first victory of the season after six straight defeats.

The champion Milwaukee Bucks made it seven in a row by routing Baltimore 120-90 and the New York Knicks made it seven straight over Boston by defeating the Celtics 106-101.

Chicago whipped Portland 125-111. Phoenix drubbed Cincinnati 126-99 and Buffalo shaded Golden State 91-89 in the other NBA games scheduled.

The goal-tending call on Lanier spoiled a great comeback by the Pistons from a 19-point deficit. Lanier, with 38 points, sparked the rally that put the Pistons ahead by three points at 103-100 before Newlin took over.

A long shot by Newlin made it 103-102 and set the stage for his winning basket in the closing seconds. Hayes was high for the Rockets with 30 points.

Walt Frazier, back in action after missing two games with a stomach virus, scored 22 points, including several key points near the end, to lead the Knicks over Boston. JoJo White threw in 29 for the Celtics who had a four-game winning streak snapped.

Chicago won its fourth straight in a romp over Portland after taking a 28-point lead in the first half. Bob Love, led the Bulls with 36 points. Stan McKenzie, got 20 for the Trail Blazers.

After Jim Barnett had given Golden State a 75-73 lead, baskets by Bill Hosket and rookie Elmore Smith put Buffalo ahead to stay against the Warriors.

Bob Kauffman paced the Braves with 24 points and the 7-foot-11 Smith grabbed 20 rebounds. Cazzie Russell was high for the Warriors with 25.

Hole-in-1 Hit By Van Ooyen

Don Van Ooyen, Rt. 4, Appleton, scored a late-season hole-in-1 Monday at Country Side Golf Course, Kaukauna.

Van Ooyen, who recently took up the sport again after a 20-year layoff, aced the 160-yard fourth hole with a 3-iron.

Ken Ellis

factor, there is little question it has been considerably more generous than a year ago at this point.

Yet, statistically speaking, there is at least one member of that unit who is performing at well above his 1970 level.

In fact, Ken Ellis has already doubled his production of interceptions, one of the few concrete measurements of a defensive halfback's artistry.

The jet-like sophomore, who has decided all-pro potential, has purloined six enemy passes to date. That figure, which has him out front in the National Football Conference, is three more than what he had at this stage a year ago.

Could Tie NFL Mark

Should he continue at this brisk, interception-a-game pace, Ellis would match the all-time NFL season record for thefts, 14, set by Dick (Night Train) Lane while with the Los Angeles Rams in 1952.

A supremely confident athlete, the former Southern University standout credits his '71 success to experience, concentration and the defensive backfield coach, Don Doll.

"I think I'm playing the ball better than last year," he says. "Last year I was still learning the system and receivers. Now I think I know the receivers better and am concentrating better."

"Coach Doll has been a great help to me, too. He's constantly helping me. At the beginning of the season, he talked to me about my position and the future. He told me I had all the tools to be one of the best cornerbacks in the league. He's constantly reminding me of this and of things I can do to do a better job."

Ironically, for a speedster who has been clocked at 44 seconds in the 40-yard dash, Ellis has returned his six interceptions a grand total of 10 yards. His longest runback came in last Sunday's 30-13 loss to the Rams when he returned a Roman Gabriel pass five yards, setting up a field goal by Lou Michaels.

Close Coverage Cause

"That is due to the fact that I have close coverage on the receiver," Ken explains. "I'm right in front of him when I intercept the ball, and, of course, he is right there to make the tackle. I like to run with the ball, but that's the way it's been happening this year."

His interception total is particularly impressive because opposing quarterbacks, contrary to their 1970 habit, appear to be avoiding his area.

"They really haven't been throwing my way too much," he admits. "They only threw three in my area Sunday. One was incomplete, one was intercepted and the other was a touchdown (to Lance Rentzel on a play which saw the ex-Cowboy push off an indignant Ellis)."

"I guess they're getting a little more respect for me. Actually, I would like for them to throw my way because it's a challenge. And, of course, you can get more interceptions."

If there ever has been any reservation about his performance, it has been in playing the run. But Ellis feels he is more effective in this area than he was a year ago.

'Helps Me Concentrate'

"I think I can still improve on that, though, as far as forcing the play and shedding the blockers is concerned."

Given wide latitude by the coaching staff, Ellis says, "Coach Doll and Coach Haner told me to play as much bump-and-run as I want to and I play it about 85 to 90 per cent of the time."

"I'd just as soon play it all the time because bump-and-run helps me concentrate on a receiver instead of looking in

Enid Kruse Hits 607 for National Honor Pin Count

Enid Kruse jolted a 607 for a national honor count in the Hit 'n' Miss League at the 41 Bowl Tuesday night.

It wasn't all too easy for Mrs. Kruse to get the first national total of her career, even though she had a 242 game to open with. In the last game, Enid knew she was close to the 600 set but needed three strikes to get it. She promptly fired a strike in the ninth and followed with two more in the 10th and 11th to go over the 600 mark.

After the 242, in which she had a total of nine strikes, Enid dipped to a 161 and then came back with a 204. Her previous high series was a 536 rolled last season.

Has 160 Average

Mrs. Kruse has been bowling about 10 years and carries a 160 average for the Northwest Cash Register team. Enid is a once-a-week bowler.

Other top scores in the Hit 'n' Miss League included Maria Rohm 205-560, Mary Schmidt 208, Carole Eckes 201-531, Sandy Gitter 532, Marvis Buboltz 207, League at Hahn's Lanes.

Kay Prasher led the action in the American League at the 41 game and 560 series to lead the Bowl last night with a 214 game action in the Twilight League at, and 528 series.

The Champagne Ladies Lynn Marohl had a 202 game, League at the Super Bowl was Majel Sonnenleitner hit a 535 paced by Fern Goehring with a series in the Five by Eight 200 singleton.

Devastating Combo

Taylor-Dawson Get NFL Offense Nod

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs are the National Football League's mutual admiration society of the year.

Otis Taylor hauls in five passes for 105 yards against the tough defense of the Washington Redskins, and he talks break." Dawson said, "but when you get hit like that, thirty yards downfield, Taylor, breaking for the goal from the right, reached for the high pass—but only with his right arm. Pat Fischer, the diminutive but tough 11-year veteran defensive halfback who was meeting Taylor for the first time, was draped on his back. He had Taylor's left arm locked against the receiver's side.

It was a spectacular one-handed completion, the ball bouncing from the outstretched hand and Taylor quickly cradling it against his chest for the game's final touchdown.

Dawson, who was still under Biggs and never saw the completion, said after the game, "I heard the roar of the crowd, and knowing I was in Kansas City, I guessed something good must have happened."

With six regular season games under their belts, the Dawson-to-Taylor combination has accounted for 27 receptions, good for 578 yards and five touchdowns.

And their next game, against perennial rival Oakland—with whom they are tied with 5-1 records—could put the tandem over its season-long yardage mark during the entire 1970 season—618 yards.

Dawson and Taylor were selected for the weekly honor over Bobby Douglass, the Chicago Bears' last-ditch quarterback, and Miami Dolphins' running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick.

Coach Hank Stram, who thinks collectively, says, "We came back because we have 40 great people."

Dawson and Taylor

This is true. But at one key moment, it was all Dawson and Taylor.

Because of that moment and clutch individual effort in other instances of the game, the two were named for co-honors as The Associated Press Offensive Players of the Week in the NFL.

That one moment: It's tied 20-20 and the Chiefs are on Washington's 28-yard line with just under four minutes left—second under and nine to go. Dawson's precarious protection breaks down and very large defensive end Vernon Biggs, fresh from the bench, rumbles in virtually untouched with his sights on the quarterback he outweighs by nearly 100 pounds.

Dawson released the ball an "nth" of a second before Biggs buried him. "I saw Otis points and eight assists, conceded the Bucks need work on ball handling. But he said Milwaukee had plenty to do with forcing Baltimore into mistakes.

"We tried to do a lot of foolish things, but we did the job," Robertson said. "You've got to play them even, then get a bust-out. That's the mark of a good team, and we did it tonight."

"When you start to run, it takes a very disciplined team not to try to run with you," he said. "And when you make them play your game, they'll make their own mistakes."

Coach Gene Shue, whose Bulls dropped four straight to the Bucks in the championship play-off last April, said he didn't think Milwaukee was invincible. But he didn't sound convincing.

Out of Gas

"I thought Milwaukee could have been had last year," Shue said. "Look, we were totally out of gas when we played them. I still think they can be

"Of course, in Jabbar and Oscar they have two of the game's best players; and Jabbar shows how one great big man can change a team around. Early this past summer I didn't feel they'd win it this year, because if anything happened to Alcindor—I mean Jabbar—they'd be in real trouble," Shue said.

But Shue admitted he's changed his thinking since the Bucks moved to strengthen their front line.

"That's right," he said. "They got John Black in a real steal. I thought, 'They got Toby Kimball for practically nothing, and Bill Dinwiddie for not a whole lot. Their depth has made them a whole lot tougher.'"

The Bucks, now with 14 straight wins at the Arena, will be off until they meet the Celtics in Boston Friday night.

Black Hawks Win

DETROIT (AP) — Chicago's Stan Mikita scored one goal and added two assists to lead the Black Hawks to a 5-2 victory over the hapless Detroit Red Wings Tuesday night.

Dennis and Bobby Hull each scored once, along with Doug Jarrett and Jim Pappin, to complete Chicago's scoring. Goals by Leon Rochefort and Bill Collins kept the Red Wings close for a time early in the game. Detroit fans booed and heckled the hometowners, who now have a 2-6 record, during most of the contest. When the public address announcer gave the customary "one minute to play" the 11,789 persons in the audience applauded the announcement lustily.

Chicago outshot the Red Wings 31-24.

AP 'Big Ten' D.C. Everest Widens Lead Over Oshkosh

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Schofield solidified its first-place hold in this week's Associated Press ratings of Wisconsin high school football teams, despite a superb effort by Oshkos to regain the lead. Schofield, which had supplanted Oshkosh in the top spot a week ago, increased its margin from nine to 15 points this week in voting by AP member sportswriters and broadcasters.

The Evergreens defeated Stevens Point 36-15 last weekend, and that was enough to fend off the challenge of Oshkosh, which overwhelmed Menasha 62-12.

Green Bay East edged Sheboygan North 7-2—the points were the fourth and fifth scored on East in seven games—and maintained the No. 3 spot. Eau Claire Memorial, tied for third last week, slipped 14 points behind East to fourth despite a 34-14 victory over strong Wausau West.

King Climbs

Baraboo, which nipped Mauston 7-6, kept the fifth position, while Milwaukee King, 22-6 winner over Milwaukee North, climbed into a sixth place tie with Janesville Parker, which defeated Beloit Memorial 16-0.

Madison Memorial advanced from 10th to eighth after defeating Kenosha Bradford 33-0, while Wisconsin Rapids Assumption and Fond du Lac are newcomers to the top ten.

Assumption, which downed La Crosse Aquinas 15-12, was ninth and Fond du Lac, runner-up to Green Bay East in the Fox River Valley Conference, was 10th after beating Manitowish 13-6.

Assumption and 11th-ranked Stevens Point Pacelli will clash Saturday night with their unbeaten records, the Wisconsin Valley Catholic crown and a berth in the Wisconsin Independent Schools' Athletic Association playoffs at stake.

Dropping from the top ten were Milwaukee Pio Nono, 33-22 loser to Waukesha Memorial, and Waukesha, blanked 34-0 by Whitfish Bay.

Unbeaten but once-tied Kohler swamped Elkhart Lake 42-6 to retain its No. 1 rank among small schools.

The look of a champion. Stunned sadly, pulverized to near blindness inside his tomb quiet dressing room was Gomez Brennan. The man from Bimini searched for "my shades" to hide the ugliness.

Portrait of a loser. Rondon had methodically pumped close-range punches against the gutty challenger's head Tuesday night and claimed a 13th round TKO on waivers.

Can Take It

"Brennan can really take it," said Rondon, son of a Caracas fruit picker. "I kept waiting for him to go out, but he kept coming back for more."

Four thousand customers paid up to $20 at Miami Beach Convention Hall to watch the Caribbean slugger stand shoulder-to-shoulder for 12 rounds before Brennan's oft-clobbered eyelids went to sleep.

There were no complaints when the referee and ring physician halted the scheduled 15-round bout. It was logged as Brennan's first defeat by knockout in a career that began in 1956.

Brother of Chuck Hughes Defends Stadium Facilities

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Hughes, brother of wide receiver Chuck Hughes, who died on the field—or someone needing the playing field at Tiger Stadium Sunday, defended the Detroit Lions and the stadium's facilities Tuesday against critics who have suggested that his thing humanly possible to save brother's life might have been that, Hughes said, "I don't think the criticism is fair."

"Several articles have been written that more could be done," said the 41-year-old from the age of 15 after their Tom, oldest of Chuck's 12 surviving brothers and sisters.

Space Technology Getting Wide Use

By PAUL REGER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER. Houston (AP) — Tires screamed against pavement. A car goes out of control, spins and splatters into a bridge support.

The car is smashed so badly rescuers are unable to open doors or windows and pull out the injured.

A patrolman, arriving at the remote scene, unpacks a large silver gun-like device. He pulls a ring and an intense flame leaps from its muzzle. He cuts away a door of the smashed car and within minutes the injured are freed and en route to a hospital.

The patrolman was using what is actually a rocket motor adapted to cut through metal. The rocket, which gives a maximum of thrust with a minimum of thrust, was developed by the United Technology Center and is based on research the concern did in the U.S. space program.

The company estimates that about 2,400 persons die each year from uncontrolled bleeding, shock or fire while waiting to be extricated from smashed autos. Company officials think the rocket torch may change that.

The torch is but one of literally hundreds of new products which have grown out of the nation's space program.

Problems which space engineers challenged and conquered to get men to the moon are rapidly being converted to use on earth. Such technology from space is beginning to touch many areas of life for Americans and even more innovations are on the horizon.

For instance:

No Roll Call
Teachers in a Sacramento, Calif. high school no longer have to keep tedious enrollment records. A 10-digit space-developed computer keyboard has been installed in each room and the teachers merely punch up the code number of any pupil who is absent. The signal is filed in a central computer and at the end of the day a printed record for every pupil in the school.

At the same high school, teachers wear or carry an alarm unit about the size of a fountain pen. Should a disturbance develop, a teacher has only to push a toggle switch on the pen to send an ultrasonic signal to the main office. Equipment there identifies the sources and location of the signal and help is quickly on the way.

A shock absorber system developed by North American Rockwell for use under the astronaut couches of the Apollo command ship have been converted and used experimentally in highway guard rails. Engineers claim the system cushions shock so effectively that a 60 mile per hour impact on the guard rail has the effect of only a five mile per hour impact against a solid surface.

Ball Bearings
Ball bearings the size of pin points were developed for use in satellites. The same bearings have been adapted for use in dental drills, creating an ultra-fast drill which developers claim is more effective, reduces pain significantly and eliminates the sense of vibration and grinding.

The rugged demands for a spacesuit to protect astronauts on the surface of the moon led to new fabrics and new weaving techniques. A featherlight, shiny plastic insulation material used in space has been developed into an emergency blanket for mountain climbers, outdoorsmen and aviators. The blanket folds up to a hand-size package.

The largest number of spin-offs from the space program has gone into medicine.

An electronic switch developed for use by astronauts is being used experimentally to help paralyzed persons operate their own wheel chair.

The device works like glasses. By moving his eyes, the paralytic can send a signal to his motorized wheel chair and actually guide it where he wants to go. The device also can be used with other equipment to turn off lights, change television channels and turn the pages of books.

Pinhead Sizes

A sensor smaller than a pinhead was developed by space engineers for wind tunnel model testing. The device was converted for use by doctors to measure blood flow rates. It can be easily inserted into an artery because of its size. A California hospital is currently using it to measure the effectiveness of heart valve transplants.

The breathing of comatose children or elderly patients has always been a difficult problem. Doctors often insert a tube into the patient's windpipe to assist his breathing. The tube, however, can become clogged and the flow of air cut off. Usually a nurse must sit at the bedside to guard against this.

used in surgical suites and in burn wards to cut down on the amount of free floating bacteria.

—Cardiac preservation chamber. Developed by Grumman Aircraft Corp. from lessons learned in producing the Apollo lunar module, the chamber keeps a donor heart alive for a transplant. It may make it possible for donor and recipient to be widely separated. The chamber is also being used at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston to study the rejection of donor hearts by transplant patients.

2,500 Innovations
The space agency estimates that there have been at least 2,500 technological innovations passed directly from the space program into general use. Many of these new techniques and devices are patented by the government, which makes them available to any firm.

So vast have been the advances in the space business that a system has been developed which allows companies with special problems to draw on the technology developed by the space agency. About $5 million has been spent to help this new data to flow directly into the nation's economic mainstream. For a fee, the space agency will search its computerized knowledge banks for solutions to particular problems.

Other Spinoffs

Other medical space spinoffs include:

—An eight-legged lunar walker. Developed for use on the moon, it is now being used experimentally by paralyzed children. It can climb stairs, step over curbs and go other places blocked to wheel chairs.

—Computer-enhanced X-rays. First used to improve the quality of television from space, the system can create great contrast in X-rays, allowing doctors to better study the heart, vessels and brain.

—Laminar air flow systems and superbacteria filters. Developed for use in manned spacecraft, these are now being used in surgical suites and in burn wards to cut down on the amount of free floating bacteria.

Recycling Success

Many Appletonians have surely been watching with deep interest the outcome of the current city-wide effort to gather glass jars, metal cans, etc., for recycling purposes. Many others, of course, unfortunately have not bothered at all. If they did, those barrels at the various pickup points on the school yards would fill up much more rapidly.

The success or failure of such a praiseworthy program is not determined in the first days or even weeks, when the idea is still somewhat novel, and the publicity new and newsworthy. The real test comes afterwards, when the novelty has worn off. We need to keep on saving glass and cans. We need to continue to fill those barrels regularly. We need to keep ourselves involved, and we need to do missionary work to include the uninvolved.

It is the steady, sustained participation of the individual citizen which will decide the success of this project.

And that, friends, is true of many, many other worthy programs and causes.

Wisconsin Report

What Is 'Moderate' Republican in Terms Of Political Definition

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — An intriguing aspect of contemporary politics and probably to some voters a troubling one is the habit of contemporary political reporters of at-tributing a group then it must follow that the remaining group is "immoderate" if there is any logic in the usage whatever. Yet that is a distinctly hostile connotation and the news accounts understandably avoid it.

None for Democrats

Curiously, such an attempt to devise descriptive adjectives for Democrats in Wisconsin has not been observed. Yet there are at least as many Democrats uneasy in the present ideological stance of their party in Wisconsin as there are Republicans who occasionally stray from their caucus fold in the legislature or elsewhere.

Wyngaard

taching descriptive but arbitrary adjectives to the philosophical position of politicians and other public men.

Sometimes it appears that the semantical practices in politics are as important as ideology or performance. Too often these choices are arbitrary at best, and misleading to the private citizen who wants to be informed, at worst.

In the state capital today there is a display of what has quietly invaded American politics on the whole in recent years and that has become so widely noticed that there is a useful new book available in the stores called "The New Language of Politics."

No Such Name

Take the repeated use in the current Wisconsin news columns in general of the phrase "moderate Republican." There is no such tag in the legal code defining parties and party organizations. Until lately there was no such permitted word in the vocabulary of Wisconsin journalism.

One may suppose that this is the adaptation of the style of earlier eras, such as the "progressive" and "steward" divisions of the dominant Republican party of this state early in this century. But those were truly descriptive and informative. The habitual use of the word "moderate" today contains a judgment and an unfair one because it has no counter-descriptive.

If "moderate" truly describes the philosophy and objective of a Republican legislator and distinguishes

The Liberal Style

The use of "moderate" to describe Republicans is most acceptable among those who proclaim "liberal" views.

But it is not altogether clear that it won't be construed as pejorative, by the Republican constituents of those "moderates," for example. The typical use of the adjective recalls a story about the senior La Follette.

La Follette pere had the unvarying habit of appealing to what he called "fair-minded Democrats" as he built his formidable Republican machine and demolished the regular party establishment of his day. "A fair-minded Democrat," he would acknowledge, was one who voted for La Follette on the Republican ticket. The "moderate" Republican in the legislature today is typically one who supports key Democratic objectives.

Twain Didn't Rate Contemporaries Well

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I have lately been rereading the critical works and comments of Mark Twain, who was certainly the most accomplished American writer of his day, as well as one of the

In another remarkable passage, Twain expresses his distaste for two of the finest writers in America and England. This is what he said about Edgar Allan Poe and Jane Austen:

"To me, Poe's prose is unreadable — like Jane Austen's. No, there is a difference. I could read his prose on a salary, but not Jane's."

The most skillful writer of fiction America has produced in the last 100 years was Henry James. But Mark Twain found James' novels and short stories unbearably dull and prolix. It is doubtful that he ever finished one of them.

No two writers could be more different in their temperaments, styles, and approaches to life.

Nothing is harder than a true evaluation of our contemporaries in our own field. Most of us — including critics and creative people themselves — suffer from an emotional curvature of the spine that prevents us from seeing straight into the heart of a living artist. Our angle of vision is truest when he is lying dead on a slab at our feet.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — History says the Navajo tribe, the nation's largest, "climbed up onto the earth's flat disc from the dark womb underground."

The Navajos have been influenced by almost every other tribe or race with whom they came into contact.

Where Is a Right-Winger Going to Turn to Today?

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON — In late July, a dozen U.S. conservative leaders — mostly intellectuals — "suspended" their support of President Nixon. Now the conservative cabal is holding new meetings to decide whether or not the situation merits outright opposition to the President.

Their intent is serious not playful. A survey by the American Conservative Union reveals that fully half of its Republican-leaning membership wants a true believer to take up the banner against the President next year.

But before the angry conservatives go off half-cocked, they would be well advised to weigh the current state of GOP politics. Richard Nixon is not the only prominent officeholder who has changed his ideological stripes in the last few years. So have such prominent ex-ideological "wingers" as Ronald Reagan, Barry Goldwater, Strom Thurmond, and Nelson Rockefeller.

The Republican Party is in a period of flux, and many of yesterday's big names are easing back on the ideological throttle and waiting for things to settle.

This should give the conservative insurgents pause, because they can expect little or no support from men without whom they cannot mount a serious effort.

Popularity Dwindling

Take Ronald Reagan. His California popularity is at an all-time low, and local Republicans say that his old love of politics has withered on the vine. He is looking forward to a different job or to retirement, in 1974 or earlier, and he doesn't have the slightest interest in opposing President Nixon or fighting any other battles of yesterday.

Phillips

And how about Strom Thurmond? He has a new baby daughter and a new South Carolina image, and nothing could be further from the old Dixie rebel's mind than another insurgency. Senator Thurmond is collecting so many homestate goodies from Washington that he is becoming more and more of a sure thing for re-election in 1972, and he's not about to turn his back on the horn of plenty.

Barry Goldwater is another worn-out knight who has ridden to his last fratricidal joust. Pursuit of ideological "extremism in the defense of liberty" no longer motivates him. The Arizona Senator has chewed out President Nixon in private meetings, but he has no intention of taking a similar stance in public.

On the other side of the coin, the onetime folk hero of liberal Republicanism, Nelson A. Rockefeller, has moved sharply to the right — witness Aflca and his harsh new stance on welfare. Like Reagan, Rockefeller is tired of his state responsibilities and would like to switch to a big post in Washington.

New Domestic Policy Needed

Certainly, there is a protest vote to be won against President Nixon and all his tactics. Liberal Congressman Pete McCloskey may garner more of it than people think in New Hampshire, and a conservative Republican could also tap a large pool of resentment.

Conservatives are the dominant force in the Republican Party, and their real problem is that while they have complaints (many justified), they do not have many proposals. What this country needs — and what the big politicians are waiting for — is a new domestic policy that can harness both the frustrations and the hopes of Middle America. The liberals do not have it. The Nixon Administration does not have it. And the conservatives do not have it.

To some young conservatives, these are the grounds for opposing, or at least sharply criticizing the Nixon Administration. However, most of the insurgent intellectuals have little sense of using domestic policy as a positive tool of government; many are hung up on anti-Communist foreign policy issues to which the U.S. electorate simply no longer relates.

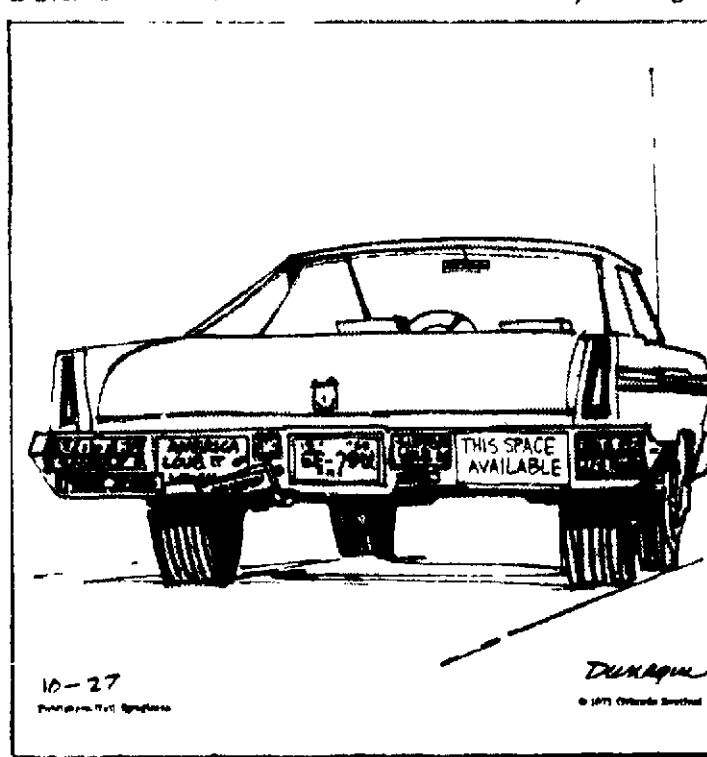

From a practical standpoint, if conservatives can hammer out a positive domestic program, rooted in many "conservative" ideas of human nature (albeit not traditional economics), their battle is worth fighting. But if they want to rally behind Cold War issues they can no longer push even Barry Goldwater, Strom Thurmond, and Ronald Reagan off the reservation, then their opposition to the President will get nowhere.

Roads Roll on

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — There are about 1,000 miles of paved roads crisscrossing the vast Navajo Reservation. The nation's largest Indian reservation covers about 25,000 square miles or 16 million acres in portions of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

Looking Backward

Appleton Doctor a 'Noble Man'

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Oct. 21, 1871.

Dr. G. I. Brunschweiler received the headline "A Noble Man," in the columns of the Marinette Eagle. The newspaper spoke of our townsman thusly:

"The noble and self-sacrificing efforts of Dr. G. I. Brunschweiler, of Appleton, are worthy of all praise. "Happening at Menominee the night of the fire (the Peshtigo fire of Oct. 8, 1871), he came to Marinette the next day, and in company with Dr. Jones of this place, has devoted his entire time, energies and splendid medical skill since to the alleviation of the terrible distress."

"Without reward, or hope of reward, save that which the consciousness of a virtuous action brings with it, his untiring and efficient efforts have been positively heroic. Years hence, when nature has captured the site of this dire destruction with fresh grasses and sweet flowers, when every miserable trace of this horrible disaster is obliterated the memory of G. I. Brunschweiler will remain embalmed in the hearts of a grateful people.

"God bless him, and may his future be as peaceful and as happy as his present hours are full of benevolent heroism."

Forty-five head of purebred Holstein cattle brought $20,665, an average of $447 per head, at the recent consignment sale from farmers in eight counties of this area, members of the Fox River Valley Holstein Breeders Association at Oshkosh.

Twenty members of Appleton Kiwanis Club attended the annual Kiwanis songfest following a dinner at the Hotel Athearn, Oshkosh, Tuesday evening, attended by about 400 persons.

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Oct. 26, 1961

The Appleton Board of Education told the city's budget committee Wednesday night that 90 per cent of its 1962 budget is already committed and no items in the total can be cut. Last year the committee and the council sliced $40,000 from the budget even though the educators said the request had been trimmed to the bone.

Dr. Charles Felcher, superintendent of the Winnebago State Hospital told the State Board of Public Welfare here Wednesday that he questioned the efficiency of the hospital's operation. He asked for help in the form of an administrative analysis and clinical program evaluation to determine whether the hospital was doing an effective job.

A new look was given to the chapel at Winnebago State Hospital this year as the result of voluntary contributions totaling about $800 and off-duty and some on-duty labor by state hospital personnel. The former chapel was remodeled and decals were placed on the windows to give the appearance of stained glass.

No-Fault Automobile Insurance Increasing

BY SYLVIA PORTER

An impressive five states already have passed some very watered-down form of no-fault auto insurance — insurance under which claims would be paid without regard to which driver caused the accident. Their names: Massachusetts, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Oregon. Another 13 states are now considering some form of no-fault. Still another 13 have passed laws authorizing studies of auto insurance reform.

Canada's Saskatchewan has had a no-fault auto insurance law for a quarter-century. Puerto Rico has had one for nearly two years. And one of the most popular consumer bills before Congress is a national no-fault auto insurance law.

At issue is simply this: we are now paying well over $1 billion a year in lawyers' fees to wrangle over the question of who caused an auto accident and, therefore, who should be compensated for losses — while accidents frequently are either nobody's fault or partly the fault of both drivers. We also are paying huge sums, in the form of legal fees, court costs, insurance claim adjustment costs, etc., to set a price for compensation for the intangible "pain and suffering" of accident victims. Only 40 to 45 cents of every auto insurance premium dollar we pay today is returned to us in the form of benefits.

'Worst System'
In the words of Jeffrey O'Connell, University of Illinois professor and co-author of the Keeton-O'Connell no-fault auto insurance plan in 1965, "We have devised about the worst system imaginable. A system that not only fails to spread most of the loss but is cruel, corrupt, self-righteous, expensive, dilatory and wasteful."

Strongly favoring the no-fault idea — either via state or federal law — are key segments of the auto insurance industry and most consumer groups. Strongly opposed are most of the nation's lawyers, many of whom earn substantial fees return on each auto insurance claim.

In court. If we remove the question of fault from auto insurance claims, the law became effective — just about insurance benefits, say the lawyers and their professional groups, victims would be deprived of their civil rights and bad drivers would be "coddled." As a spokesman for the American Trial Lawyers Association put it: "No-guilt insurance trades your rights for someone else's wrongs."

To this charge, supporters of

no-fault insurance retort: "No one asks a pneumonia patient in the hospital why he didn't wear his rubbers when he applies for health insurance benefits. No insurance agent asks, when your house burns down, whether your kids were playing with matches." And they insist that our established penal system — not auto insurance — should deal with the problem of punishment for lethal driving habits.

Premiums Reduced

The central dollars-and-cents argument for no-fault auto insurance is that by slashing legal and court costs and eliminating huge awards for "pain and suffering," our total premium costs might be reduced 15 to 25 per cent or even more.

In Massachusetts, where the nation's first no-fault insurance law went into effect Jan. 1, the number of accident claims dropped 53 per cent within the first six months alone, and the average claim slipped from $370 to $169. In this, the first year of no-fault, savings by insurance companies on auto claims are estimated at 20 to 35 per cent — and a 25 per cent premium rate cut is probable in 1972.

In Puerto Rico, there has been a full 89-cent benefit return on each auto insurance premium dollar since Jan. 1, 1970, when Puerto Rico's law became effective — just about

Statement on Environmental Impact of Road Work Filed

A draft of a comprehensive statement on the possible environmental impact of upgrading U.S. 41 to freeway standards between State 150 in Winnebago County and State 125 in Outagamie County has been filed by the State Division of Highways.

The statement, required under the National Environmental Act, is open for public comment and suggestions. Copies of the draft double the average U.S. return. Premium savings for bodily injury and property damage coverage on a no-fault basis would amount to 19 per cent over non no-fault, according to projections by the American Insurance Association in New York. Better still, these premium savings might amount to 26 per cent, says the New York State Insurance Dept.

Against the statistical odds that 75 per cent of us will have traffic accidents with in the next five years, these are persuasive arguments, indeed. Thus tomorrow's column will give you a run-down on no-fault plans.

statement are on file with the Fox Valley Council of Governments in Appleton, the district highway office in Green Bay and the state division office in Madison. A public hearing on the proposed upgrading will be held at 10 a.m. Nov. 9 in the Spring Road School located at State 150 and U.S. 41. An informational session will be conducted at the school from 4 to 8 p.m. the day before the public hearing, and again from 8 to 10 a.m. the day of the hearing. During this time, people may examine maps and other documents concerning the program and ask questions of state engineers.

'Butterflies Are Free' Is Town and Gown Hit

BY JOHN MINER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Two young stars in the making and a long established favorite of film and stage audiences delighted Town and Gown patrons Tuesday night in "Butterflies Are Free," a new comedy by Screen-ITV writer Leonard Gershe.

Any show that brings so distinguished and well known an actress as Jan Sterling to the Oshkosh High School-Civic auditorium is bound to be a happy occasion.

It was all the more so for the wit and warmth of "Butterflies," Gershe's sympathetic and often wildly funny study of human foibles through the sightless eyes of a blind man.

John Spencer, a young actor of major stature, was immensely effective as Don Baker, a perceptive, sensitive youth who flees a comfortable Scarsdale home and his domineering, clucking mother for a life of spartan independence in a down at the heels attic apartment in New York.

Into his dark but not unhappy life explodes the girl in the next apartment, a kooky and free spirited aspiring actress on the rebound from a teen-age marriage which lasted six days.

A lovely and talented sprit named Pamela Gilbreath, out on her first troupe, was delightful as the girl, at first puzzled and then intrigued by Spencer's strength and inner peace.

The first act of "Butterflies" is a hilarious and devastating depiction of the exaggerated solicitude with which sighted people so often treat the blind.

Miss Gilbreath is surprised that Spencer can survive at all without sight; his only concern is that there "are no dirty books in braile."

With less actual stage time than her two co-stars, Miss Sterling brings all of her dramatic competencies to her role as Mrs. Baker, the mother, who appears unexpectedly at Spencer's apartment to bring her son back to a stifling life in Scarsdale.

At play's end, Miss Gilbreath has learned that she is not quite so sexually liberated as she thought, and Miss Sterling recognizes that the real handicap in the Baker family is not the blindness of her son but her own unwillingness to recognize him as an adult, quite capable of managing his life.

Rounding out the mini-cast of an engaging play that is likely to be one of the highlights of Town and Gown's 1971-72 season was Terry Deck, seen as the obnoxious director of an off-Broadway show.

SCHOOL-OWNED LAND Development to be Topic at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — The board of education will meet at 7 p.m. Nov. 9 with the village planning commission to discuss development of school-owned property south of the existing senior high school.

The school district has tentative plans for development of the property as an athletic field and physical education area. A wooded portion of the property is being considered as a possible future park site.

Both school officials and village planners have expressed a need for another access road into the school site and planners are considering an access road into a recently purchased industrial park site, all of which involves school-owned property.

Representatives of the Town of Buchanan also may be invited to the meeting since property in that township could be included in future development plans.

Board members approved formation of a Ski Club at Kimberly High School after students appearing on behalf of the club agreed to make wording changes in the constitution and bylaws as recommended by the board of education.

The board agreed to send a delegate to Wisconsin Association of Mayors to attend a WABE session to be held at Green Bay Nov. 3, 11 and 17 and authorized Business Manager Myron Hut to attend a WABE-sponsored program on teacher negotiations at Janesville Nov. 4 and 5.

Consumer Protection Bill Making Progress

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The public's chinked the armor of Democratic control Tuesday as the Assembly plodded through 13 of 41 amendments on a comprehensive consumer protection bill.

The measure, dealing with consumer credit and charge account interest rates, was sponsored by 28 Democrats and had the backing of Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

The Assembly adopted 88-12 a

Warren Critical Of Law School

Too Many Students Are Non-Residents; Emphasis Questioned

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The continually tightening job market for graduate students is expected to add further pressures on the overcrowded University of Wisconsin law school here — and with them, added complaints from Wisconsin attorneys about the number of out-of-state students in the school.

"It makes me a little irked that we have so many non-constructive students going through the UW law school today while Wisconsin kids are being turned away," Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren recently told Bernard Ziegler, vice president of the board of regents of the merged University of Wisconsin System.

Wisconsin attorneys are complaining both about the numbers of non-resident students admitted to the UW school, and the emphasis on making the institution a "national law school" while a deemphasis on "Wisconsin law" is underway, Warren told Ziegler.

Changed Tone

The UW law school has always been renowned as a state law school, but the trend toward stiffening admission requirements and the changed tone of the instruction are threatening that stature, he warned Ziegler.

Good Development

Ziegler said that the increasing competition for admission to the law school is a good development, and one that cannot be criticized.

"We keep telling students that if they don't like the law, they should change it," he said. "That's what they are doing now. We can't be critical of the flood of applications, when students have been told for years to work within the system rather than trying to overthrow it," he said.

The increasing fame of attorneys such as William Kunstler, defender of the Chicago Conspiracy defendants and others, also may have had an effect on capturing student imaginations and interest, said Ziegler.

The UW Regent said that it is proper that the UW law school is "going national" in emphasis, for the UW is a national university. But vital aspects of Wisconsin law should not be disregarded in law school teaching, he said. He added that he did not know if they were.

Prof. Walter Raushenbush, chairman of the law school's admissions committee, said that the institution admitted a first year class of 340 students this year, and next year intends to cut admissions back to 300 students.

Over Capacity

"We are already over capacity and cannot meet the demand for legal education from both residents and non-residents without increases in faculty and classroom space," he said.

The credentials of this year's first year class are the highest in the school's history, he said.

The median grade point average of the class was over 3.2 on a 4.0 scale and the median law school admission test score was 632 of a possible 800 points, he said.

Last year's comparable figures for a class of 300 were 3.0 and 614, according to Raushenbush.

Nonresidents make up 33 per cent of the first year class, a slight increase over last year's total, he said. He attributed much of the rise in the size of the entering class to the tightening job market in other areas while a relatively stable job market exists for lawyers. Many of this year's new students have had previous graduate studies in other fields.

Pedestrians Won't Need Green Light

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The pedestrian had his day in the Wisconsin Assembly Tuesday.

A bill which would bring Wisconsin motor vehicle laws into closer conformity with the federal Motor Vehicle Code was amended after an indignant lawmaker rose and protested its discrimination against pedestrians.

The bill would have prohibited pedestrians from crossing against a red light unless otherwise directed by a walk light. Presently pedestrians can do so if they don't interfere with vehicular traffic.

"It takes people and it says 'you're nothing more than a robot,'" declared Rep. Edward Nager, D-Madison. "It doesn't make any difference if there's no car in sight. You stand there and wait like an idiot for a green light."

"Then you can walk across with all the other robots we seem to be creating in society today," Nager said.

Nager objected to adjusting his life "to what some obscure technician has programmed some computer to do."

Under the amendment, a person could walk against a red light if he could do so safely and without obstructing traffic. He could not, however, walk against a "don't walk" light.

The amendment was adopted on a voice vote, and the bill was referred to the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

Recommendation Expected

Regents' Poll Shows Weaver Support

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The ad hoc Organization Committee of the merged University of Wisconsin Board of Regents meets in Madison Friday, apparently to recommend John Weaver for the post of president of the merged UW system.

A survey of committee members revealed solid support for Weaver and virtually no competition for the post, which was created when the state legislature passed a bill merging the University of Wisconsin and the nine-college state universities systems.

The only hitch may be Weaver, currently serving as president of the "old" UW, who has said he will withhold any decision until the merged board outlines duties of the president.

"What we (the committee) are going to do is try and make progress toward bylaws and setting up an administrative structure," Regent John Dixon of Appleton said.

"I know if I were in President Weaver's position, I would want to wait until I knew what the chain of command might be and what my duties would be," Dixon said.

The organization committee comprises executive committee members from the two old regent boards.

Legislation requires the 11-member panel to "formulate a proposed organizational and functional structure of the central administration," and to "propose central administration officers and staff at the earliest possible date."

"We certainly hope to make the recommendation Friday," Regent James Solberg of Menomonie said.

"Certainly I have no hesitation about going along with President Weaver," Solberg said.

He was one of nine regents contacted.

Bernard Ziegler, regent from West Bend and acting regent president in the absence of W. Roy Kopp until Dec. 9, said the central administration could be structured in one of two ways.

"We can have a strong central administration or a weak central administration with strong heads of the two systems," Ziegler said. "There are Ziegler said he feels Weaver wants to head up a system as the strong central administrator, and the regents will have that in mind when they work out organizational structure Friday."

"Obviously, my inclination all along has been that John Weaver should head up the system," Ziegler said.

Only one of the regents contacted by The Associated Press mentioned another candidate for the post. He is Leonard Haas, recently named president of UW-Eau Claire.

"I have great respect for John Weaver and I think he along with some other candidates would make an excellent president," Regent Milton Neshek of Elkhorn said.

"I'm more aware of Leonard Haas," Neshek said. "We have a good number of candidates that could probably do an equally excellent job."

Walter Renk, regent from Sun Prairie, noted the support for Weaver by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

"I'm more aware of Leonard Haas," Neshek said. "We have a good number of candidates that could probably do an equally excellent job."

"My personal choice? I would like to have Dr. Weaver head of the university," Renk said.

Dixon said "we all feel very enthusiastic about President Weaver. I admire him personally very much. I feel very amphatically that Dr. Weaver is an excellent person for the job," he said.

Frank Pelisek, regent from Milwaukee, said: "The obvious choice at this point, on leading new system.

contender, would be Dr. Weaver. Dr. Weaver would be my selection."

Dixon, Solberg and Neshek were on the state university Board of Regents. Ziegler, Renk and Pelisek were on the UW board.

The organization committee, Ziegler said, was formed under a portion of the merger law which orders the Board of Regents to "direct and approve" the consolidation of the central administrations of the systems "no later than July 1, 1973."

The direction the committee takes in that consolidation may determine if the whole Board of Regents, meeting Nov. 5, has the name of John Weaver before it for president of the gian-

Puerto Rican Independence Faction Gathering Strength

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The Puerto Rican independence movement is picking up momentum in a drive to establish a "Socialist republic" on the island one day.

Even independence leaders don't expect this goal will be reached in 1972 elections or in the near future. But they predict that their candidates will take 20 per cent of the vote with 3 per cent in 1968 elections for governor and legislature.

"It's a completely different picture today," says Juan Mari Bras, the stocky, mustachioed secretary of the Puerto Rico Pro-Independence Movement.

His group has close links with Communist Cuba. It spurred the Cuban delegation to the United Nations to move that Puerto Rico's "colonial" status be considered. The United States succeeded in keeping the subject from being discussed. Mari Bras says "third world" members of the United Nations will bring it up again next year.

No Taxes

The United States got the island from Spain in 1898 and regards it as a commonwealth governing itself. The 2.7 million Puerto Ricans pay no U.S. taxes and don't vote for president, but young men are subject to the draft.

In the next election more of these will have the vote, since the franchise has been extended to 18-year-olds. This is one factor making the independence movement more optimistic.

Another is that a lagging economy, with unemployment over 12 per cent, has hurt the administration of Gov. Luis A. Ferre. He heads the New Progressive party, which envisages the island as a state.

Especially significant, some feel, has been the development of programs that spell out what the movement wants for Puerto Rico if independence is won.

Social Programs

"All independence movements were just that," says former Gov. Roberto Sanchez Vilella. "They did not have well-defined social and economic programs. Now for the first time we see them working for a Socialist republic."

Police & Fire Beat

LITTLE CHUTE — The Rev. Norbert Vande Loo, pastor of St. John Catholic Church, reported to police that vandals had tipped over and broken headstones in the parish cemetery Friday night or early Saturday.

Police found 14 headstones tipped and the remains of a bottle of wine in the cemetery.

Appleton police are investigating a burglary at the home of Mrs. George Wanek, 1124 S. Telulah St., that netted the burglars nine bottles of liquor. The burglary was discovered Monday evening when Mrs. Wanek returned from a three-week vacation.

The theft of items from two cars Monday night at the Super Bowl was reported to Appleton police. Charles E. Maas, 815 W. Taylor St., reported that a $20 camera was taken from his car. Harold W. Roloff, 2603 Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, reported that he lost two knives, a duck call and binoculars worth a total of $41 from his auto.

Roloff reported seeing someone in the car and said he chased them but could not catch them.

A 13-year-old Appleton girl was apprehended Monday while shoplifting at the downtown H. C. Prange store. She reportedly took a pair of earrings valued at 97 cents from the jewelry department.

The wallets of four men working on night maintenance at Stokely Van Camps, 1820 W. Eighth St., Appleton, were reported stolen Monday night.

Herman F. Kuse, 171 Anton Court, reported that he lost a $100 check and $20 cash. Rich L. Schott, 125 E. Peckham St., Neenah, $15. James A. Mani, 1208 S. Herbert St., credit cards, and Clyde Kieffer, 127 S. Lawe St., $7. In addition all the men had identification cards in their wallets.

The wallets were taken from the men's clothing which was placed in a locker room where they had changed into work clothes.

Courts

KAUKAUNA — Clarence Zuehl, 60, 1701 Oakridge Ave., pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was fined $75 by Municipal Justice Clarence O'Connor Monday morning. Zuehl was arrested after a disturbance at his home.

His people's party is in the middle of the statehood - independence controversy. Like the older Popular party, his organization wants to keep Puerto Rico's commonwealth status but with more autonomy.

"The weakness of the commonwealth status," he said wryly, "is that it's rational. The statehood and independence people have the advantage because they can wave the flag."

"Independence is a necessary development, but it's not enough," claims Ruben Berrios, 32, president of the biggest independence group, the Puerto Rican Independence party. He describes the island as a colony and adds: "A colony is like having one arm, because the other is tied behind the back. A republic gives us both hands, but we can use both badly or wisely."

He wants the hands to build a Socialist republic.

Prison Sentence

Berrios is a slim, blue-eyed, blond Puerto Rican who was educated in law at Yale and Oxford. He served three months in prison after he and other "independentistas" staged a protest on the tiny offshore island of Culebra against its use as a U.S. Navy gunnery range.

His group and the Pro-Independence Movement have cooperated in public rallies and marches but Berrios has rebuffed overtures from Mari Bras to form a united front with smaller groups to back one field of candidates in 1972. Mari Bras says he got the idea from the popular-unity coalition that helped Salvador Allende win the presidency in Chile last year. Both Mari Bras and Berrios attended Allende's inauguration.

Statehood advocates say it's inevitable Puerto Rico will become a star in the American flag. Commonwealth advocates generally favor the status quo but want a new agreement giving Puerto Rico more control in labor, minimum wages, immigration and communications licenses. U.S. businesses have almost all the island's $2.9 billion in outside investment. U.S. container-ship companies handle the bulk of vital shipping to the island.

"In summary," says Berrios, "we Puerto Ricans have real control over neither our government nor our economy."

The independence movement has been marked by bomb explosions and sometimes shooting. Last year, a U.S. sailor was shot and killed near a San Juan naval station. Last spring, two policemen and a student were killed in rioting at the University of Puerto Rico. A young student "independentista" was charged with a police killing.

The organized groups disclaim any affiliation with violence such as bomb tossing, which Puerto Rican authorities call the work of Cuban-supported terrorists.

While seeking socialism through the electoral process, Berrios says his movement will continue to "make it hot" for the United States with tactics including civil disobedience, strikes, demonstrations and marches.

"Every colonial power has left when it was more in its interest to leave than to stay," he observes.

Carthage Students Use 'Grotowski' Method

It's Athletic, but More in Preparation For Shakespeare's 'Hamlet' This Weekend

KENOSHA — Two Fox Cities drama students at Carthage College are among the actors who prepared for the weekend presentation of "Hamlet" by what is known as the "Grotowski method."

Tony Quinn Really Dug This Episode

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channels 11-9 — Anthony Quinn told TV Scout he couldn't wait to get to work in the mornings when they were filming tonight's episode of The Man and The City. Henry Darrow plays a tough Mexican American policeman, particularly hard on his own people because he feels they must be better. He is accused of beating up suspects, one a Mexican American, although you'll know he's innocent. What results is a series of scenes exploring all factors involved. Ken Lynch makes the first of recurring appearances as a police sergeant who has grown up prejudiced, but is learning.

7-7:30 Channels 11-9 — The Bewitched group are in an English castle, where we find out whether witches are stronger than ghosts, or vice versa. A ghost (Patrick Hogan) takes a fancy to Sam (Elizabeth Montgomery) and invades Darrin's (Dick Sargent) body in a scheme to get closer to her.

7-7:30 Channel 5 — On Adam 12, two cases concern Martin Milner and Kent McCord. Most of the time is spent with the Perret (Steve Franken), a mysterious intruder who invades factories to point out their polluting practices. But the more interesting case concerns superstitious immigrants from the South, especially pregnant women who eat clay, prescribed by witch doctors to insure a healthy child.

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Tim Conway is back on The Carol Burnett Show and a good time is had by all. We start Tim and Carol browsing in a model room in a department store, and then making the mistake of jumping on a water bed. Tim, as his senile old man, works with Harvey Korman, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner in a robbery skit, and they have a sticky time with plastic explosives.

7-8:30 Channel 5 — It's Columbo's turn on the Mystery Movie, and it's good fun to watch him fumble his way to victory. A respected Marine general (Eddie Albert) kills a fellow officer (John Kerr), while a girl (Suzanne Pleshette) in a sailboat witnesses the crime. The general soft-talks her into doubting her own eyes, and Columbo (Peter Falk) has to solve a crime that has no body, no murder weapon and a reluctant witness.

8-9 Channels 2-7 — Joe Gannon (Chad Everett) is more psychiatrist than physician on Medical Center as he advises a couple with marital problems. John (Bradford Dillman) is in the hospital after an auto accident and he confesses he is impotent. Joe, who used to date John's wife (Collin Wilcox-Horne) guesses the root of John's problem is his rich father-in-law (David Wayne).

9-10 Channels 2-7 — The disappearance of a Little League coach leads to big league gangsters, drug traffic and murder in a prison shower room on tonight's Mannix. Joe (Mike Connors) is hired by a small team to find their missing coach and the assignment leads to important crimes, new and old. The climax is a rousing battle in a greenhouse.

9-10 Channel 5 — A haunted house and a Transylvanian castle are the locales for the eerie doings on Night Gallery. In the first, there is a bet made. One man (Leslie Nielsen) wagers that he can spend a night in a haunted house. He does, surviving all sorts of spooky manifestations, but his betting opponent (Fritz Weaver) saves the worst for morning. In the other, a Nazi general (Helmut Dantine) occupies a castle during World War II. He should have known better, considering that the castle is in Transylvania, the home territory of werewolves. Count Dracula and such assorted terrors.

what is known as the "Grotowski method." They are John Houser, Appleton, and Miss Lois Schmidt, Kaukauna. Miss Schmidt plays the role of Queen Gertrude in the Shakespearean tragedy and Houser has dual roles of Francisco and Fortinbras.

The play is being given three nights, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Wartburg Auditorium on campus. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

What is the Grotowski method? It's a new way of acting preparation, created by Polish theatrical director Jerzy Grotowski, who hastens to say it may look like a physical training program, but isn't at all. Carthage thespians have been using the method in half-hour stints three times a week before they go through their lines in rehearsal and act out their scenes.

"It's psychic in meaning and can bring about a non-verbal form of communication," says Carthage actor Russ Fear, who is teaching the others the method. Fear took part in a workshop at Goodman Theater in Chicago last summer and brought it back to Carthage College where he has applied his concepts of the Grotowski technique to his fellow actors for the "Hamlet" production.

Fear plays the two roles of Laertes and the player King as a member of the traveling troupe that comes to the court. "We're using it to warm up everybody before rehearsals," said Fear, "but its more than just physical exercises. And it's not gymnastics. There's a process of self-revelation involved in Grotowski's method, and from self-revelation one receives a definite stimulus providing he participates in the exercises and movements with complete abandon."

Keep in Shape Fear contends that outside of the athletes in Carthage's physical education and intercollegiate sports programs, the college's theater department majors are in better shape than any other group on campus. Few will doubt Fear's claims after watching him do head stands, bridges, shoulder stands, torso pivots, bows, bridges, jumps, somersaults.

"Most of the players really like it," said Fear. "Others think the Grotowski method is just a good physical warmup, so I guess you can say we've had a mixed reaction to it," he added.

Grotowski created his Theater Laboratory in 1959 in Opole, a town of 60,000 inhabitants in the southwest area of Poland. A co-creator was his close collaborator, the well known literary and theatre critic Ludwik Flaszyn.

In January, 1965, the Theater Laboratory moved to the university town of Wroclaw which, with its half million inhabitants, is also the cultural capital of the Polish Eastern Territories.

It was here that it attained its present status as the Institute for Research into Acting. The activities of the Laboratory have been continually subsidized by the Polish State through the municipalities of Opole and Wroclaw.

British writer Peter Brook has stated that "no one since Stanislavski has investigated the nature of acting, its phenomenon, its meaning, the nature and science of its mental-physical - emotional processes - as deeply and completely as Grotowski." This theater laboratory is perhaps the only avant-garde theater whose poverty is not a drawback, and where a shortage of money is not an excuse for inadequate means which automatically undermine the experiments.

It was decided to hold monthly meetings at the town hall. The next meeting will be 8:15 p.m. Nov. 16.

Miss Lois Schmidt, Kaukauna, seated third from left, and John Houser, Appleton, standing right, are among the Carthage College drama students learning more about the technique of the "Grotowski Method" of acting. Student Russ Fear, Chicago, is showing them some of the work he learned at Goodman Theater last summer. The theater department is opening its season with the Shakespearean tragedy "Hamlet" later this month. The students use the new approach to their acting art before every rehearsal.

Glad You Asked That!

BY HY GARDNER

Q: Did Richard Milhous Nixon, when he went to college, have a nickname? If so what was it? — L.M.E., Washington.

A: "Gloomy Gus" — playfully purloined by pranksters from a comic-strip character who looked at the world through morose-colored glasses.

Q: We just watched a 1950 musical, "Let's Dance," co-starring Fred Astaire and Betty Hutton. We know that he's alive and well, but whatever happened to Miss Hutton? — Riley J. Eastlick, Ashtabula, Ohio.

A: Even though Betty was swinging so high in the '40s that her name was billed above Fred Astaire's, the fates grounded her. She recently admitted "I just can't take any more setbacks. I lost my mother, my two older girls walked away from me, I had a very bad marriage and my career stopped except for summer stock. I never would have been booked into before. I closed myself up in my house, just sat and washed and ironed, and I was dying inside. Without my little girl, Carrie, I would have committed suicide." Miss Hutton confessed to a Life reporter: $9.5 million went down the tube. I'm broke. I've been reading the Bible, and I've had great therapy from the Assembly of God church. I think things are going to go right for me again. I'm not old. I'm old enough, but I photograph young, thank God, and I still have a public. I still get fan mail. I must make something come alive again through the talent God has given me.

Q: I hear that Mitch Miller, who still likes living on New York's West Side, has a theory on the violence there. What is it? — Gordon S., Pasadena, Cal.

A: He blames it on inflation. "I've noticed," Mitch muses, "that whenever the cost of living (the price of apartments, food clothes, medical bills, etc.) goes up — the incidence of violence goes up with it." About Mayor Lindsay cracking down on the hordes of prostitutes patrolling the streets, Miller says "If they jailed them all it would cut the population in half!"

Q: I've read that Mae West has had many lovers in her time. Did she ever keep count of how many? — J. Thomas (of the Doubting Thomases), Cleveland.

A: As recently as a year ago Miss West told a reporter: "I don't remember how many lovers I've had, there were so many I was never interested in the score, though — only the game. Like my famous line, 'It's not the men in my life that counts but the life in my men!'"

Q: There's no school for stuntmen per se," advises Universal Studios' Carol Pätz. "But stuntman Paul Stader has a gymnasium in Santa Monica — and he occasionally undertakes the training of someone with outstanding potential. For more information, write The Stuntmen's Assn., 1500 Ventura Blvd., Sherman Oaks, Cal. 91403."

Q: Whatever happened to one-time "Dead End" kid Huntz Hall, who also starred in the "Bowery Boys" series? — Clarence R., Shreveport, La.

A: Huntz got the bends from the ups and downs of acting, and decided to become a "business man." Bored with that bland routine, he recently shot a TV pilot playing the role of a gun-for-hire who gets chicken whenever he's supposed to pull the trigger.

Peking Sees Victory In U.N. as U.S. Defeat

TOKYO (AP) — Peking people will continue to maintain hailed today its election to the high vigilance and fight together United Nations but predicted the United States and Japan will keep trying to create two nations for a thorough frustration of these schemes of the Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek vowed again to overthrow the Communist regime.

Peking's official New China News Agency, referring to the General Assembly vote Monday to admit Communist China and oust the Nationalists, said: "This significant victory in foiling the U.S.-Japanese reactionaries' plot to create 'two Chinas' in the United Nations, moving from table to table was won by the Chinese people and the people of the world and sign guests. The report said it various friendly countries up- was quite 'unusual' for Chou holding international justice to do so much handshaking at a through a protracted joint struggle."

But the broadcast commentary said: "The U.S.-Japanese reactionaries will never be reconciled to their failure and will continue to step up their criminal schemes of 'two Chinas,' 'one China, one Taiwan,' of creating 'an independent Taiwan.' The Chinese the New China News Agency said the United States and Japan "ran hither and thither, just like ants on a hot pan," seeking support for the unsuccessful attempt to keep Chiang Kai-shek's government in the United Nations.

The New China News Agency said the General Assembly vote "clearly indicated that the peoples of the world are demanding that the Chiang Kai-shek clique be expelled from all U.N. bodies." But the Nationalists remained entrenched in the specialized U.N. agencies because their constitutions make no provision for withdrawal of membership.

Officials in Geneva of such agencies as the World Health Organization and the International Telecommunications Union made plain in an informal poll Tuesday that they would welcome Peking as a member. But they said that under present conditions, Peking would have to modify its refusal to sit in the same organization with Chiang's representatives.

Acting Foreign Minister Chi Pengfei told newsmen his government was considering sending a delegation to the United Nations, Asahi reported.

Chi said the U.N. vote showed "the complete bankruptcy of the policy long pursued by U.S. imperialism." And

3-Way Power Split

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Up to now, if the to function effectively as a agree, there was always some hope that the United Nations in any given crisis might be able to function effectively as a peace organization.

Mainland China's entry creates a new situation reflecting the realities of the global power triangle.

The new occupant of China's General Assembly chair—and of the permanent Security Council seat allotted by the charter—will oppose the United States on many if not most issues and probably will be just as hostile to the other superpower, the Soviet Union.

Peking commands a big and growing prestige, not only as one of five members of the Nuclear Weapons Club but because China is home for a quarter of the world's people.

Critically important The Chinese delegation can attract much support from members from Africa, Asia and Latin America and even some from Eastern Europe, depending upon issues involved. Peking stands between the superpowers, able to have a go at tipping the scales in one direction or another or, failing that, to use a veto with paralyzing effect. The Soviet veto had been the only anybody worried about in the past, and the Russians have used it sparingly in recent years. Now there are two vetoes to worry about. Now it will take agreement by three governments instead of two to get anything of critical importance accomplished. Thus, Red China's entry into U.N. councils can generate problems even more formidable than those that have vexed the organization through its first quarter century.

Peking enters the organization as an avowed protector of small, poor nations against alleged plots of the two superpowers. It contends the small members are insufficiently represented. Does this mean Peking will try to change the structure of U.N. bodies? Only time can answer the question.

Might Peking hold up the selection of a new secretary-general to succeed U Thant, who is retiring this term? When it was just a matter of the Americans and Russians agreeing on a candidate, the two could reach a meeting of minds. The other three permanent, veto-wielding members of the Security Council—Britain, France and Nationalist China—didn't create difficulties.

Chiang Kai-shek's regime ruled an island of 14 million people and relied on the United States for its independent existence. It was unlikely to oppose the Americans on any critical issue before the council.

800 Million People But the mainland regime rules 800 million people and is beholden neither to the United States nor the Soviet Union. The superpowers, if they manage to agree on important issues, will have to win the consent of a government which feels it owes nothing to either and, in fact, is the bitter rival of both for political influence.

Peking might decide it does not like the present apportionment of representation in various U.N. bodies, including even the Security Council.

Now there is a gentleman's agreement that the 10 non-permanent members—five are elected each year for two-year terms—should be chosen on geographical lines. This means seats for such specified areas as East Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America and West Europe.

Red China, ideologically violent against "bourgeois" notions, may be unimpressed by gentlemen's agreements. It could decide that geographical distribution did not give enough to its "third world" clients and toss a wrench into the machinery.

There is no assurance that Peking will do all or any of these things. But it now has the potential and it has the motivation in its rivalry with the two giant nuclear powers. It would be surprising if, once having familiarized itself with the U.N. game, the Peking regime did not yield to a considerable temptation to throw its weight around.

—Conservative senators from both parties called for reduction in U.S. financial support of the United Nations with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., demanding U.S. withdrawal.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., said he has asked his staff to prepare legislation calling for a major reduction in U.S. support, and amendments might come to cut the $141 million in the aid bill to U.N.-related programs.

—Sens. Church, Gale McGee, D-Wyo., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., opposed any move to cut back U.S. contributions.

"While all Americans should deeply resent expulsion of the Republic of China," Taft said in a New York speech, "and while it is likely to endanger the future of the United Nations, it should not trigger regressive actions against U.S. interests."

Grain Reserve Debate Hot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hot political dispute may emerge on Capitol Hill over a proposed national food bank for building reserves of important grains.

While supporters and opponents of the food bank both say publicly there should be no partisan approach to the issue, they agree privately it could become a political issue.

Some Democrats hope to force the President's hand on an issue of crucial concern to voters in the farm belt. Republican opponents of the proposal call it "an ineffective and wasteful gesture that will bring more mischief than relief both to farmers and to the general public."

Over intense opposition from the Nixon administration, the House Agriculture Committee recently approved the bill 21 to 10.

House Floor Although it is not expected to reach the House floor for action until next year, Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, the prime sponsor, said in an interview Tuesday that he will press for the Democratic leadership to attach an emergency tag to the legislation.

Under the legislation, the secretary of agriculture would set up, maintain and dispose of reserves of grain sorghums, corn, barley, oats and wheat. He would buy, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, up to 300 million bushels of wheat and 25 million tons of feed grains—paying not more than the previous five-year average price received by farmers.

The reserve would be offered for sale above average farm prices.

A reserve could be retained on declaration of emergency by the President or a resolution by Congress. The reserves could be used to ease distress at a disaster area. They also could be rotated to prevent stocks from damage or spoilage.

Erratic Market "The reserve would give strength, continuity, and resultant stability to an erratic market swollen by domestic overproduction, and facing difficult foreign trade circumstances, not the least of which has been a U.S. dock strike of mammoth proportions," said the committee majority report to the House.

The Agriculture Department estimated it would cost about $1.45 billion for wheat and grain purchases and $215 million a year for storage based on this year's figures only.

Nine committee Republicans who voted against the bill described it as "adverse to the farmer's interest and expensively futile for the public."

They said: "It fails to recognize the fact that there is no shortage of grain now or in the foreseeable future. It ignores sources of grain both at home and overseas that would be available. In brief, it simply adds another price depressant to farmers' market price picture."

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — money collected from the local Over bitter opposition, Senate Democrats and moderate Republicans approved Tuesday night a proposed $1.98 billion state budget which embodies revenue sharing reforms sought by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey.

Approval capped a marathon 12-hour debate in which GOP foes of the budget-reform package blistered six Republican colleagues for having defected to the Democratic side on the controversial measure.

Without the Republican rebels, the Democratic minority could not have won because the GOP controls the Senate 20-13.

The measure was approved 19-14, and was promptly messaged to the Democratic-controlled Assembly for concurrence on a Senate amendment involving state tax revenue which is shared with local governmental units having large utility plants.

Final legislative action by the Assembly could clear the way for the legislature to recess until January.

Public Service Lucey issued a statement late Tuesday, commending senators and singling out lawmakers who "placed responsible public service above more narrow interests."

The Democratic chief executive expressed "relief that a final impasse has been avoided."

Wisconsin has been operating on its 1969-71 $1.56 billion budget since the beginning of the current fiscal period July 1.

The proposed 1971-72 budget includes $117 million in new taxes, $73 million less than originally sought by Lucey. Most of the new revenues would come from individual and corporate income tax hikes.

A 25 cent a gallon excise tax increase on liquor also is contained in the bill.

The most hotly contested of the bill's provisions were those dealing with the formula for redistributing more than $300 million a year to approximately 1,800 local governmental units.

1971 Formula Lucey and Democratic legislative leaders have insisted that despite a last-minute effort by Atty. Gen. Robert Warren to woo the dissidents back into line on Senate procedural matters.

Warren, titular head of Wisconsin Republicans, gave his loyal pitch to the Senate GOP caucus behind closed doors.

Three of the Republicans—Bidwell, Cirilli and Krueger—walked out.

Later, an attempt to include $366,000 in the budget to provide more staff for Warren was killed 17-16.

Those voting against the proposal included Bidwell, Cirilli, Krueger and Heinzen.

Several majority Republicans were quick to condemn the role of the defectors.

U.N.'s Decision on China Sparks Senate Maneuvers

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Nations' decision to expel Nationalist China has sparked a round of angry Senate denunciations and added controversy to the foreign aid bill.

Before anyone could even try to amend the $3.2 billion authorization measure, Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, was on his feet Tuesday to urge it be sent back to the Foreign Relations Committee—so it could be saved.

"If we don't send it back to committee I think we're going to defeat it," Saxbe said.

But Senate leaders said a postponement in considering the aid measure might delay congressional adjournment, now scheduled between Nov. 15 and Dec. 1. They also said it may delay other important legislation.

While the debate raged on the Senate floor, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, came up to the Senate Press Gallery to support the Saxbe move.

"It's a very poor way to legislate—to begin this debate the day after the U.N. vote," Church said. "The mood of the Senate is hot-tempered and irrational. Senators have been known to do silly things in the past and who knows what silly thing might be adopted now."

But Saxbe had to abandon his effort, and the aid bill is now ready to receive amendments. An amendment already inserted by the Foreign Relations Committee calls for a withdrawal of troops from Indochina in six months.

As senators rushed to get on record on the U.N.'s Monday night vote, these main threads of argument developed:

U.N. China Vote 'Senseless'

BY BOB LAUX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

By normal standards of rationality, the United Nations' decision Monday night to expel Taiwan while admitting the People's Republic of China "just didn't make sense."

This was the consensus from people interviewed at random on College Avenue Tuesday. But interpretations of the historic event varied from person to person.

Edward Marschner of Appleton thought the admission "should be a good thing. We can't bury our heads in the sand as far as China getting in."

Anna Marie Harris said, "It just might make for more peace in the future. I hate to think of 'prestige' as far as the United States goes. It just doesn't make sense to reject people (Red China) if you want to have peace."

Sander Rosenblum thought the expulsion was unfortunate. But he said, "If you want to have peace on this earth, you've got to get along with all the people, regardless of their opinions."

Eric Schuster agreed that admission was a necessity: "They had to be in; I think it's silly if you keep out a major power — after all, they're the largest country in the world," Schuster reiterated that expulsion "doesn't make any sense." He said the decision reduces confidence on the U.S. allies.

An Appleton man of World War II age did not object to the admission. But he said, "It lowers our prestige internationally. When a country the size of Albania can carry that power in the U.N., it lowers our prestige."

Another resident called the decision "a slap in the face of the United States." He said, "It shows that the other nations have belittled us, even though we've poured all this money in to support those foreign countries."

Two Menasha women said they were sad and frightened by the General Assembly vote. One said, "I'm a little frightened. We don't know very much about Red China. I know we've heard the bad things about it. You wonder if there are any good things."

Mrs. Charles Bodmer said, "I'll be honest with you. I don't trust those people — I don't trust the Russians either."

er. I'm thinking just like the Senators — what was it — we're paying 40 or 60 per cent of the U.N. budget." She had heard that Senators wanted to cut back U.S. support for the United Nations.

Others adopted a "wait and see" attitude, to find what effect the U.N. decision will have on President Nixon's impending visit to China.

While the majority of people questioned were opinionated about the U.N. action, those who reserved judgment did so largely for two reasons: They had not followed accounts of the U.N. deliberations or they found newspaper stories contradictory and confusing.

Mrs. Walter Stutzman of Black Creek, for example, said, "It's all Greek to me — throw it up in the air and see how it comes down. You wonder what's right and what's wrong."

Theodore Ponto of Menasha said, "You don't know what to believe. One page in the paper contradicts the other." Mrs. Ponto asked, "There wasn't any definite reason why they (the Nationalists) had to be kicked out, was there?"

For all outward appearances, of course, there wasn't any definite "reason." The reasons are historical, perhaps mythical, certainly political.

One man carrying a briefcase in the direction of the Lawrence campus, declined to comment on the decision. "No matter how they handled it, it's bound to be wrong," he said. "Politics is one question that shouldn't be discussed."

F. J. Bloomer Dies Tuesday After Illness

Appleton Resident Was President of Family Corporation

The president of John F. Bloomer Company Inc., Francis J. Bloomer, 1306 S. Outagamie St., Appleton, died Tuesday morning after a short illness.

Bloomer was a native of Appleton.

He became president of the corporation, which specializes in state highway construction projects, in 1956 when the firm was incorporated. It was founded in 1922 as a private company by Bloomer's father, John Bloomer, who died in 1955. The firm is a closed family corporation.

Bloomer also was a partner in the Bloomer Bituminous Co. from 1952 to 1967. The company manufactured and sold asphalt for highway paving.

He was a member of the St. Mary Catholic Church, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, Elks Club, Butte des Morts County Club and Wisconsin Road Builders Association.

Survivors are his widow, a son, a sister, a grandson, and a daughter-in-law.

Visitation will be from 7 until 9 p.m. today at the Bretschneider-Trettn Funeral Home and after 8 a.m. until funeral services at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary Catholic Church.

A prayer service will be at 7:30 p.m. and an Elks Club service at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Burial will be in St. Mary Cemetery.

Welfare Mothers Hear Some Answers

Concerned Outagamie Mothers were successful Tuesday night in bringing together five county officials involved in payment and non-payment of child support, but the women may not have liked everything they heard.

Mrs. Janet King, president of the welfare mothers group, said the purpose was to find out what each official's responsibilities are, "instead of them passing the buck" when they're contacted separately.

County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren, divorce court judge, and Family Court Commissioner John Ensley told the mothers that they can't perform miracles in producing more money than an ex-husband has, and they warned that if they didn't leave him an adequate amount to live on, he would lose his incentive to work.

"I can't stretch the money any further than they did," Van Susteren said, noting many are in debt when they come in for a divorce.

"Lack of Money" Ensley cited the frequent example of a man who remarries and must support two families. "It's simply a lack of money. If they've got the dough, I can get them."

He and Van Susteren recommended that mothers in these tight money cases should seek welfare help.

Dist. Atty. James Long offered something more appealing to the mothers but he admitted that it was a "theory of Jim Long's." He proposed determining how much the children need to live on, and then determining how much of this the father and the mother each can provide, with the rest coming from welfare.

"The child is the forgotten one," he said.

Long said that he didn't know how it would be implemented but that it could and must be effected.

Clerk of Courts Gloria Johnson and Sheriff Calvin Spice explained their responsibilities, both being mainly carrying out specific duties not involving judgments of cases or circumstances.

The mothers asked many questions, including several involving their individual non-support payment problems. They also complained about payment arrearages being wiped out, the failure to apprehend some fathers who have left the state and related items.

Computer System?

They asked why a computer system couldn't be set up so that when a support payment failed to come in to Miss Johnson's office, it would become apparent immediately. Madison has such a system, it was pointed out.

Van Susteren said that such a system would be impractical and unnecessary. He noted that mothers quickly complain when a payment fails to appear.

He also said that the computer would provide misinformation. Payments might have been stopped because of many legitimate reasons, he said.

Ensley said he had to be careful not to haul a father into court without cause. However, he said that if it could be shown a father could but didn't pay, he would be prosecuted.

Van Susteren emphasized that as a judge, he must consider many things, including that the husbands have enough money to pay on debts, insurance and for "a near decent" standard of living.

He said that if the husband isn't left enough, he may become disheartened and leave his job; be unable to pay debts and face garnishment and possible loss of job. Then no money is coming to the mother, he added.

Mothers Fail

Ensley said he believed the greatest weakness in the divorce and support payment system was the mother's failure to meet responsibilities.

He cited one man who was behind on payments. When the man talked to Ensley about this, he related that his ex-wife had had two illegitimate children since the divorce, and she wanted more money to help support them. Ensley said

"It's becoming evident to me that some of these mothers should have the children taken from them," he said.

Miss Johnson told mothers that her office received an additional 14 support accounts per week, with the total at nearly 950.

Spice said he had about 120 open warrants for ex-husbands, but he added that these dated back to 1943. He estimated that about 75 still are active.

CHILTON — Resolutions appropriate money to various county needs and annual reports were part of the first day's agenda for the Calumet County Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

A resolution appropriating $198,575 to the Department of Social Services was approved. This amount is the county's share for these services. Actual total cost runs well over the $400,000 mark with state and federal aids making up the balance.

Broken down in the various categories, the money was appropriated to aid to the blind, $35,000; aid to families with dependent children, $23,000; old age assistance, $41,350; aid to totally and permanently disabled, $8,400; old age assistance and blind aid special relief, $150; medical assistance, $91,750; child welfare services, $2,000 and administration and services costs, $29,575.

Hein was authorized to straighten out Larsen Street before curb and gutter is installed. This is to be done if possible, without removing any trees.

Permission was granted after Johnson read letters from City Attorney Laurie Anderson and Atty. Edward J. Hart who represents the late Ralph Constance's heirs.

The city owns the Constance property and Mill-Craft Housing has an option to purchase. It will be used as the site for the firm's office building.

Hart advised the council that the home could be removed after Dec. 1 and that contents of the four buildings to be taken down by Mill-Craft at its expense should be set aside for inspection by the heirs.

Second Point Beach Plant Seeks License

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A special temporary operating license for the second unit of the Point Beach nuclear power plant on Lake Michigan has been requested of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) by Wisconsin's Public Service Commission (PSC).

In a strongly worded appeal, Chairman William Eich of the state agency asked that the temporary permit be granted, and that operations be permitted while environmental studies are continued by the AEC.

"Any changes required in plant construction and operation as a result of these investigations could be made upon completion of your investigation," wrote Eich.

"In view of the fact that Point Beach Unit 1 has been operating for approximately one year without demonstrated harmful effects, we urge that your commission issue a temporary operating license for Point Beach Unit 2 at this time, with the continuance of your present environmental investigations," Eich wrote to James R. Schlesinger, chairman of the AEC.

Eich said he wrote to express the PSC's "deep concern over the potential electric power shortage and realized and future increased cost of electric service facing the citizens and industries of Wisconsin due to delays in the availability of the Point Beach Power Plant Unit 2 constructed by the Wisconsin Electric Power Company and the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company.

Issuance of an operating license for this plant is presently being contested by several interested groups."

The plant, originally scheduled to be in power production in 1971, has been delayed by construction problems, wrote Eich. But fuel loading was possible as early as August of this year and construction is essentially completed, he wrote.

The Wisconsin-Michigan power system projections show that "the capacity represented by Point Beach Unit No. 2 is required now to provide adequate reliable electric service at reasonable rates and will be urgently needed to meet the expected summer peak demands in the Midwest by 1972," wrote Eich.

"Without this plant, critically deficient reserve margins will result and can seriously threaten power supply reliability in this area. The problem is compounded in that excess capacity available for purchase from neighboring systems is also expected to be in short supply," he warned.

High Service Rates Eich wrote that the PSC views "with considerable apprehension" increased costs caused by delay of operation of the plant.

Each month of delay costs $15 million in power purchases that must be earned back by high service rates or reduced earnings for the firms, he said. If earnings drop, the firms' ability to secure financing to modernize their plants, meet environmental protection demands and serve customers is hampered, he said.

The monthly cost of the delay of granting an operating license results in capital carrying charges of $300,000, said Eich, resulting in eventual higher service charges for purchasers of the plant's power. The companies also own $15 million in nonproductive fuel awaiting loading and are facing property taxes of $19 million a year on the unproductive plant at present, he added.

If a temporary license cannot be granted now, every effort should be made to speed the issuance of the regular operating permit, Eich urged the AEC.

Stories, Songs In German Are Student Project

CLINTONVILLE — During this observance of American Education Week, second, third and fourth year German classes at the senior high school have been presenting a short German program each day over the local radio station for the entertainment of the German speaking people of Clintonville and area.

The daily programs consist of either singing or short humorous stories in German, instructor Walter Rohm explained. Students relating the stories include R. J. Brennan, Debbie Anker, Denise Bessette, Dianne Heideman, Vickie Kafka, Christine Dieck and Tim Schulz.

The singers are Vickie Kafka, Debbie Wiese, Cheryl Harper, Scott Seering, Steve Sengstock, Dennis Stuckney, Phillip Kreuger, Laurel Velte, Carol Bodoh, Janice Buchholz, Kathy Strong, Dianne Heideman, Christine Dieck, Barbara Hurley, Kathy O'Connor, Bob Holtz, Sue McConley, Jane Heideman and Mary Torborg.

The program is being presented by the Clintonville Community Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Lauren was the third oldest of six children. She was a kindergarten at Bear Creek Elementary School.

Ryan Funeral Home, De Pere is in charge of arrangements.

The death is the 15th traffic fatality in Outagamie County for 1971, compared with 16 in 1970. Of the 1971 deaths five have been children including four pedestrian accidents and one child on a tricycle.

Waupaca to Repair Old Landfill Tractor

WAUPACA — In a special meeting Tuesday the City Council voted to spend $5,000 for the full repair of the five-year-old crawler tractor used at the sanitary landfill site.

The machine has been out of commission for more than three weeks and Walter Hein, director of public works, had it completely torn down, inspected and received a cost of repair estimate from Bark River Culvert and Equipment Co., Green Bay.

After full repair the machine should run between two and three years with only minor repairs, the aldermen were advised.

Presently the city is leasing a machine for $400 per week to operate at the landfill. It is hoped that the repaired equipment will be ready to resume operation within three weeks.

In other action, the council approved electrical service from its lines at South Park and the Well No. 3 site, for the U.S. Geological Survey to install heaters for its equipment during winter. The Geological Survey will pay the city $40 for electricity.

Hein was authorized to straighten out Larsen Street before curb and gutter is installed. This is to be done if possible, without removing any trees.

Permission was granted after Johnson read letters from City Attorney Laurie Anderson and Atty. Edward J. Hart who represents the late Ralph Constance's heirs.

The city owns the Constance property and Mill-Craft Housing has an option to purchase. It will be used as the site for the firm's office building.

Hart advised the council that the home could be removed after Dec. 1 and that contents of the four buildings to be taken down by Mill-Craft at its expense should be set aside for inspection by the heirs.

The Day George Buckley Was Pinched

The cop who pinched Appleton Mayor George Buckley has written a book.

It's called, "I, Pig, or How the World's Most Famous Cop, Me, Is Fighting City Hall." It's written by Jack Muller, assisted by professional writer Paul Neimark.

The day Muller pinched Buckley, the man getting the ticket wasn't yet mayor of Appleton. He was alderman of Chicago's 39th Ward.

Buckley was reminded of the occasion this week after being shown clippings of a review of Muller's book in last Sunday's Chicago Sun-Times.

As Buckley remembers, on that day in 1958 he had been visiting a police captain friend at the 34th District Police Station, which was in his ward. The then-alderman had parked his car in a no-parking zone in front of the station, and when he came out there stood Muller with the ticket.

Buckley refused to take it, and further refused to show Muller his driver's license when the big officer demanded it. Buckley said he didn't have to show his license unless he was sitting behind the steering wheel and the engine was running.

When Muller persisted, Buckley turned on his heel and stalked back into the police station. He explained the situation to his friend the captain, and the captain gave the keys to his own car to Buckley.

The alderman, waving from behind the wheel of the captain's car, zipped past the startled Muller, still waiting patiently beside Buckley's illegally parked machine.

A little later, the police captain came out and drove off in the alderman's car.

It was only a delaying action, of course. Buckley eventually got the ticket, and the case wound up in Chicago Traffic Court.

Buckley, represented by two attorneys, won.

"We showed that a traffic ticket is technically in the nature of a summons, and therefore should be served personally" on the driver, Buckley recalls.

Since the ticket was never served on him in person, the judge dismissed the case.

Buckley added that he dared the city attorney to take the case to appellate court, but the attorney never sought an appeal. If Buckley had won in the higher court, it would have set a legal precedent that would require policemen to wait beside every illegally parked car in Chicago until the driver showed up, Buckley says.

Lutheran Choir To Perform at Memorial Chapel

More than 175 voices from 17 Lutheran churches in the Fox Cities Lutheran Council will take part in a Reformation choir concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Lawrence University Memorial Chapel.

Celebrating the 454th anniversary of the Lutheran Reformation, the choir, conducted by Ivan Spangenberg of Faith Lutheran church, Appleton, will present the "Una Sancta," a musical selection by Paul Christensen symbolizing the unity of Lutheran churches. A three-minute drama of introduction will trace events in the Lutheran Church from the Reformation to present day.

Organist is Mrs. Mary Kay Easty of Zion Lutheran Church, Appleton.

"This is the first real attempt to try to make the unity in doctrine and heritage of the Lutheran Church come alive in the Fox Cities," says the Rev. Donald F. McDermott, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Neenah, coordinator of the concert.

The concert is open to the public. A free-will offering will be taken.

The Fox Cities Lutheran Council was organized last year in an attempt to develop a closer working relationship between area Lutheran churches.

Henry F. Scheig, Appleton, is president.

Keep OO Speed at 50: State

The State Department of Transportation has recommended maintaining the 50-mile-per-hour speed limit on County Trunk OO (Northland Avenue) from Mason Street to County Trunk EE.

This area includes the Oneida Street intersection where parents of school children have been attempting to have traffic signals installed to replace the present four-way stop signs.

The survey report, in the form of a letter to the Outagamie County Highway Committee, contained only speed limit recommendations and did not involve other traffic controls.

Keeping the existing 50-mile-per-hour limit on OO between Holland Road and County

Trunk DD also was recommended by the state. They also recommended leaving the 65-mile-per-hour limit on OO at Bluemound Road and on County Trunk CE (east College Avenue) from Appleton to State 55.

One Change

Maintaining the present 45- and 35-mile-per-hour zones on County Trunk BB from Riverdale Street to east of Casoloma Drive also was recommended.

In the only change proposed, the 45-mile-per-hour zone on County Trunk A from College Avenue to north of Capital Drive would end several hundred feet farther south.

In bidding action, the highway committee accepted the bid of Mid States Machinery Co., Green Bay, of $27,998 for an Allis Chalmers road grader. The price includes trade in and was low among seven bidders. The vote was 4-1 with Supv. Eugene Kloes voting no.

Texas Co. was awarded a six-month contract for gasoline on its low bid of 12.163 cents per gallon.

Bids of $11 per ton of road salt were accepted from Diamond Crystal Salt Co., Morton Salt Co., and International Salt Co. The price is the same as the low bid submitted to the state for salt on state highways in the county.

Also accepted were identical bids of $54 a ton for calcium chloride flakes from McKesson Chemical Co., Appleton, and The Chemical Supply Co., Neenah.

LU Students Want Traffic Checked

Lawrence University students who reside at Brokaw Hall have petitioned the city to construct "speed humps" in a nearby alley to prevent accidents caused by reckless drivers.

The 400-signature petition, received last week by Ald. Robert Roemer (8th), suggested that if the city could not put in "humps," it at least take other measures, including putting up a stop sign, posting the 15 m.p.h. speed limit and making the alley one-way.

The alley north of the dormitory, runs parallel to College Avenue between Durkee and Drew streets. According to the petitioning students, the alley is sometimes used as a dragstrip and besides presenting a danger, is noisy to Brokaw residents.

The petition suggested that the alley be made one-way going east, because most of the alley traffic going west turns at Durkee, and does not use the roadway for access to bordering garages. It is not intended to be a thoroughfare, they said.

He added he did not know why they were not considered by the council.

Wussow said he would submit his maps to the board's reapportionment committee next week. If the county board would adopt one of his maps, Wussow said, it would then be up to the city to decide what to do about dual polling places.

Under his plans, he also would renumber the wards so the city's Calumet County ward would become the 20th Ward instead of the 9th as it is now known. This, he said, would permit the wards and supervisory districts to carry the same numbers.

He said he had shown his maps to several aldermen who "said they liked the man and supervisor, if desired."

Wussow said he has drawn three different ward maps, all of them keeping the wards within 1 per cent population variance, while "sticking more to the traditional ward lines" of the city.

There has been pressure, however, to have ward lines and supervisory district lines the same to simplify voting and also to permit the city to combine the posts of alder-

Nixon Goes It Alone On His Court Choices

Attorney General Mitchell and Deputy Appear to Have Again Let President Down

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Largely overlooked in President Nixon's abrupt and wise retreat in the squalid supreme court battle of 1971 was the inexplicable failure of his Justice Department advisers to smell the approaching storm and lead the President to shelter.

For example, the President received private information raising serious questions about Little Rock attorney Herschel Friday's qualifications for the high court after the decision to appoint him. That information came not from Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's sleuths at justice but from the President's own official family in the White House.

Moreover, not until far too late in the administration's search for needles of mediocrity in the haystack of highly qualified jurists and attorneys did Mr. Nixon learn that Judge Mildred L. Lillie of the California Court of Appeals would be formally opposed by her local bar association of Los Angeles.

Evans Novak

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst lacked their usual influence. But the contrary opinion—that they let him down—is widely accepted.

Thus, when the judiciary committee of the American Bar Association (ABA) secretly found both Friday and Judge Lillie unqualified for the Supreme Court early last week (a verdict that leaked to the press on Oct. 20), Mr. Nixon instinctively reacted as he always does in the face of genuine crisis. He holed up alone with a thick sheaf of critical press stories, the familiar pad of yellow foolscap and his own thoughts in his hideaway in the Executive Office Building. Mitchell was not at his side.

Feared Rejection
The President did not leave his hideaway until 11 p.m. on Tuesday night. He was there most of the day on Wednesday and there on Thursday he personally wrote his televised speech for Thursday evening.

It was during that solitary period that the President decided he could not deliver on his commitment to Friday or Judge Lillie. The reason was not so much the ABA's verdict of "not qualified" or the crescendo of informed public opinion against his choices. It was his rising fear that one or both might be rejected by the senate.

With the Senate having rebuked him twice by refusing to confirm Clement Haynsworth in 1969 and G. Harrold Carswell in 1970, a third and possibly a fourth rejection in 1971 carried too grave a political risk.

But the Justice Department had left Mr. Nixon with no ready alternatives. Of the six possible appointees dispatched to the ABA for consideration, only Friday and Judge Lillie were bona fide. The other four, including Democratic Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, were mere smokecreens.

Accordingly, once he decided to dump his two real choices, Mr. Nixon faced another crisis. He had publicly pledged to announce his selections by late last week and as of midweek he had no serious alternatives.

Selection Praised
That led to the surprising—but highly praised—selection of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., a former ABA president and much-respected Richmond, Va., attorney. Powell was the very first name considered after the late Justice Hugo L. Black announced his resignation on Sept. 17. He was immediately ruled out by the Justice Department, however, on grounds of and there on Thursday he personally wrote his televised speech for Thursday evening.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) More than a month ago I requested that tax be withheld on my pension, but I've noticed no change in the amount of my pension check. Doesn't my old firm have to start withholding immediately?

A) The payer of your pension does not have to begin withholding until three months after you filed your Form W-4P. Annuity's Request for Federal Income Tax Withholding.

Q) I do a lot of traveling on my new job. What kind of records should I keep?

A) Your records should show amounts, dates, destinations and business purpose. A diary or similar record, supported by items such as canceled checks and paid bills, is acceptable if entries are made when the costs are incurred. For more information obtain a copy of IRS Publication 63, Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses. It's available free from your local IRS office.

Q) Can I still deduct my stock market losses dollar-for-dollar from my capital gains?

A) Yes, these losses can still be used to offset capital gains.

Q) I saw a notice on the bulletin board at work that some people may not have enough tax withheld this year. How do I find out if I'm one of them?

A) Estimate your 1971 tax that will be withheld based on your current withholding. This can be done from tables the IRS has given your employer. If you should find more withholding is needed, you should claim fewer exemptions and, if necessary, have additional dollar amounts withheld. You can do this by filing a new exemption certificate (Form W-4) with your employer.

Q) Is it true that I can claim a credit on the tax I pay on the gas and oil I use for my boat?

A) Yes. When you file your return next year, you may claim a credit of 2 cents per gallon for gasoline and a credit of 6 cents per gallon for lubricating oil. Be sure to keep adequate records to substantiate.

A) Yes. When you file your return use Form 4136 to claim the credit. IRS Publication 378, Federal Gas Tax Credit or Refund for Non-highway and Transit Users, may be helpful. Send a postcard to your local IRS office to obtain a copy.

CUT OUT AND SAVE FOR REFERENCE

The Appleton Common Council and Department of Public Works have recently combined ideas and energies to promote a much-needed solid waste recycling program that can only succeed WITH YOUR HELP! Tons of properly prepared cans and bottles are needed to make the program work and maintain a saving program that will utilize material we formerly wasted. This is a program for everyone because "Conservation Is for Everyone." Adults will be proud of accomplishing so much needed material saving, and their sons and daughters will be proud of their parents and themselves for helping.

Check the preparation instructions at the left. It is really very easy! Your family can make a game out of the saving and preparation of used cans and bottles... see which member can prepare the most in the shortest time. Just rinse out cans and bottles, remove ends and labels from the cans and flatten... just stepping on them will do it! Labels from bottles need not be removed... just the metal rings (if any) usually at the neck of the bottle. Keep them separate, and bring them — or have your children do so — to the school sites listed below and deposit them in the respective receptacles provided.

Nurse Won't 'Catch' Cancer From Patient

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Doctor: I am a nurse's aide and have taken care of several terminal cancer patients. Is there a chance of being contaminated or infected with discharge from patients I have handled?

I have read that cancer is not infectious, but is there a chance of some cancer cells being transmitted through cuts or wounds?

Many articles tell about the possible or proven causes of cancer, but I haven't seen the answer to what I am asking. Do the cancer cells exist only in the patient's body? Why doesn't the health department require isolation techniques on cancer patients? — Mrs. L.P.E.

with him, using clothes or other articles formerly used by a cancer patient. Cancer is not transmitted in any such manner.

The exact cause of cancer has not been determined, and there is a reason to wonder whether there is a cause. One possibility is that cancer occurs under a certain combination of circumstances — a combination of become infected, just as any hereditary, hormones, irritants, open wound can. The germs, virus and possibly others causing such a secondary infection should, of course, be avoided for cancer patients. There's no need, just as you would avoid the more cancer among nurses and germs from any infection in others who care for such patients which cancer is not involved at times than in the rest of the all population, which is pretty good. seemed to relieve him. Finally I took him to my own doctor who suggested simply that I get him some rayon or acetate underclothing to wear.

In just a few weeks the itching disappeared. For two years we tried several times to go back to his cotton briefs, but each time the itching returned.

So if cotton panties don't work for the girl, perhaps she should try rayon or one of the acetates before giving up. It worked for us. — Mrs. C.V.

Thank you.
Note to Mrs. R.W.: No. lupus erythematosus is not contagious, but what causes it is not known.

Dear Doctor: On a radio program we heard a discussion on vitamin E. It was stated that before bakeries started using white flour for bread, back around 1900, heart attacks were virtually unknown, but we cannot find any bread that is made from unrefined wheat flour.

Since both of us have had lots of relatives die of heart attacks, we were wondering if taking vitamin E daily maybe would

It remains to be proved that vitamin E will help prevent heart attacks. Can it help? Or is it just another one of the many health fads that come and go over the years? I'd like some proof before I'm willing to accept it as valid.

When the proof is a statement that heart attacks were "virtually unknown" around 1900, that makes me mighty suspicious. Heart attacks were plentiful then. Many were called "acute indigestion". So let's wait for something solid in the way of evidence before accepting the claims.

Car Slams Into House, Woman In Fair Condition

MENASHA — An Appleton woman who was injured when a careening ambulance used as a private car crashed into a home in which she was staying here early today was reported in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital this morning.

Mrs. Elsie Salford, 66, 1425 E. Wisconsin Ave. was taken to the hospital for observation after a 1946 ambulance driven by a 19-year-old Menasha youth slid through a stop sign and intersection in the Town of Menasha and slammed into the house.

The accident took place at the intersection of Milwaukee and Ninth streets. County police said that the car, driven by Gary L. Kettenhoven, 941 Williams St., skidded up the driveway and across the lawn of the house before striking it. He reportedly suffered a cut lip.

A passenger in the car, Mark S. Dorton, 19, also of 941 Williams St., was uninjured.

The car was demolished. Damage to the house and lawn was estimated at $5,100.
